MUSSOLINI AND HITLER MEET

GERMANS DROP 100 BOMBS ON BRITISH BASE

English Admit One Warship Hit.

LONDON, March 17 (AP).—Fourteen German planes carried out the greatest raid of the war against British soil last night, dropping 100 high explosive and incendiary bombs about Scapa Flow naval anchorage, damaging one battleship and causing Britain's first civilian casualties in aerial warfare.

Seven navy men were casualties, one civilian was killed and seven civilians, including two women, were injured. Five cottages were damaged.

Late tonight the air ministry said the Royal Air force, in a daylight counterblow, sighted several German patrol vessels in Heligoland bight, off the German coast between the islands of Borkum and Heligoland, and attacked them with bombs.

Lifts Ships Out of Water.

One of the German naval vessels was said to have been partially lifted out of the water by bomb explosions. All British aircraft were declared to have returned safely.

German planes, which returned to the attack today with raids on British east coast shipping, were intercepted by British fighters. The air ministry said two of the German bombers were chased into the clouds and that "damage was believed to have been inflicted on both of them."

In addition to attacking Scapa Flow, which the British had previously said was no longer being used as a naval base, German Heinkel bombers yesterday tried to reach the Firth of Forth bridge, near Rosyth naval base in Scotland, but were driven away before they could get within bombing range.

Call Damage "Minor."

Altho German announcements declared three battleships and one cruiser were severely damaged in the Scapa Flow raid and that two other warships received probable damage, the British said but one battleship suffered only minor damage.

[The German communique said all German planes returned safely from the raid, during which bombs also were dropped on the Orkney Island airports of Stromness, Kirkwall, and Earth House. A story of the attack as told by German flyers will be found on page 7.]

The raid lasted 1 hour and 25 minutes, beginning in the twilight about 7:50 p. m. and not ending until 9:15 p. m.

Drop Incendiary Bombs.

More than 50 high explosive bombs fell near houses or farm buildings and on country roads in the west section of the main island, called Pomona or Mainland. In addition, according to the British version, many incendiary bombs were dumped in this region.

Most of the casualties apparently were in the village of Bridge of Waith, where 19 explosive bombs fell. It was there the two women were hurt, and the civilian, James Isbister, 27, killed. Another 18 bombs were said to have been dropped in one spot over the Queen Amoan area of Stenness.

The British said they shot down one of the attacking planes and believed they damaged others. The British, in explaining the presence of warships at Scapa Flow, said the admiralty's previous announcement that it had been abandoned as a fleet base did not preclude its use as an anchorage.

Merchant ships attacked by German planes included the freighter Redhall, 1,093 tons, which was machine gunned without damage, and the trawlers Mirabelle, Avondee, and Braconiea, which were raided by bombers but not struck. The 2,248 ton Netherlands collier Sint Annaland struck a mine and was sinking. The crew was rescued by another vessel.

Germans Hail Air Power.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 17.—German officials said tonight that the western powers' chances of matching the German air force in quality and quantity were slighter than ever as the result of suspension of negotiations for British and French purchase of the latest types of American planes.

The Germans declared that in the last half year they even had increased their air superiority. Britain, they argued, is forced to split up its air force while Germany can employ most of hers against the English,

CONFER IN TOWN ON FRONTIER AT BRENNER PASS

Rome Sees Chance of Peace Move.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, March 18 (Monday) (AP).—Reuters, British news agency, in midmorning relayed a report of the Rome radio that Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Premier Mussolini had entered into conference at Brennero, Italy.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Picture on back page.)

BERLIN, March 17.—The masters of Germany and Italy, together with their foreign ministers, tonight were speeding toward the Brenner pass where tomorrow, at a little town, Brennero, just inside the Italian frontier, they will hold a momentous meeting.

Map locates meeting place of Hitler and Mussolini.

It is expected that the meeting will take place at 10 a. m. [3 a. m. Chicago time].

Great secrecy clothed Fuehrer Hitler's departure from Berlin by train at 11 a. m. [4 a. m. Chicago time] accompanied by Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and other aids.

[With similar secrecy Mussolini left Rome at 1:30 p. m. [6:30 a. m. Chicago time] accompanied by his foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, and the German minister to Italy, Hans Georg-Viktor von Mackensen.]

See Closer Coöperation.

The fact that the meeting would take place was announced suddenly after Hitler already had left Berlin.

Nazis feel certain that the meeting of Hitler and Mussolini will result in the announcement of closer coöperation between Germany and Italy.

Influential circles expressed hope that the meeting will lead to a "union of all young nations against the reactionary western powers. Germany and Italy are the representatives of this front, which can be the central point for wider combinations," they said.

Russia, now closely tied with Germany, also may figure in any new plans of the Germans and Italians.

Union Against England.

The semiofficial German news service said that "the young nations are preparing for life after the victory over England. Their goal is the creation of a new Europe made up of strong nations which will not have to bow under the English knout."

This will be the first meeting of Hitler and Mussolini since the start of the war and their first since at Munich in September, 1938, before the passing of Czecho-Slovakia to Germany. It will be the fifth momentous conference between the leaders of the Rome-Berlin axis since 1934.

WELLES WAITS IN ROME

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 17.—All Europe tonight was seething with intense anxiety over the outcome of the interview, which will take place tomorrow between Benito Mussolini, strong man of Italy, and Adolf Hitler, whose word is law in Germany, Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, and part of Poland.

It was believed here that the meeting spelled a general Italo-German peace move or a diplomatic offensive against Britain and France.

Peace advocates argued that the timing of a peace move is perfect. They pointed to the opening of Holy Week on St. Patrick's Day, the pope's anticipated Easter week plea and the second visit of American Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles to Rome.

There is no indication that Great Britain and France would be willing to accept any program in which Germany has a dictatorial hand.

America's Rôle a Puzzle.

As events here unfolded rapidly during the day, it appeared that Welles might be made the godfather if not the father of the plan. Observers felt that the Rome-Berlin axis was moving to give the impression that Welles had given his

Horner, Stelle Clash in Statements

MAYBE THEY'RE TRYING TO BORE EACH OTHER TO DEATH

LIEUT. GOVERNOR BLAMES ATTACK ON 'USURPERS'

Lieut. Gov. John Stelle was in Chicago yesterday when he was told of Gov. Henry Horner's attack on him. He made this statement:

"Here again the people of Illinois have a demonstration of the greed and brazenness of the selfish clique who have usurped the powers of the governor of Illinois.

"On Palm Sunday, the beginning of Holy week, when all the Christians of the world are earnestly centering their thoughts on God and his teachings, they force a broken man to issue a statement filled with invective and slanderous in its nature.

"As for the statement, the people of Illinois know my record and the bosses cannot change it. As for Henry Horner, whom they are forcing to say these things, I can only as a Christian man paraphrase what the greatest of all men once said: 'Excuse him, Father; he knows not what he does.'"

Stelle said he would have no further comment until he had read the Horner statement.

Doctors Split Over Cause of Smith Death

Chicago medical men were sharply divided last night as to whether the death of F. Lynden Smith, state director of public works, could have been caused by coronary sclerosis.

Smith was found dead on March 9 in the partly filled bathtub of his room at St. John's hospital in Springfield. He had been taken secretly to the hospital on March 7 after a reported attempt to end his life with a knife in his Springfield home.

Coronary sclerosis—hardening of the upper arteries of the heart—was blamed for Smith's death by four pathologists who conducted an autopsy in his home city of Pontiac last Friday. A previous autopsy in Springfield had failed to determine the cause of death.

Report by Four Doctors.

The opinion that the public works director died of coronary sclerosis was given by Dr. Edwin F. Hirsch of St. Luke's hospital and Dr. Josiah J. Moore of the Moore Clinical laboratories, both of Chicago; Dr. F. W. Light of St. John's hospital in Springfield, and Dr. Benjamin Markowitz of Bloomington.

But some leading Chicago medical men expressed the opinion last night that coronary sclerosis could not cause a sudden death, such as Smith's, since it is a disease which acts slowly.

The action of coronary sclerosis was compared to that of lime which gradually accumulates in hot water pipes until water can no longer flow. Similar deposits accumulate in the blood vessels, it was explained.

But physicians stressed the fact that this is a gradual process, and that in ordinary circumstances it would give ample warning thru extreme pain and heart disturbances before it could cause death. Smith was not known to have had any heart trouble.

One medical authority called attention to Smith's age, 44 years, and said that no man so young could have died of coronary sclerosis without warning.

Another Flatly Disagrees.

Another said flatly that coronary sclerosis could not cause sudden death unless there had also been a thrombus, or complete closing of a major blood vessel, or an embolus [blood clot] brought in from some other part of the body to clog a main artery. He said the pathologists would have found evidence of an embolus or thrombus had there been one.

Still another said: "It doesn't sound likely that coronary sclerosis could have taken him so suddenly. But it is possible."

Several agreed that the disease does not cause sudden death. Among them was Dr. N. C. Gilbert, former president of the Chicago Heart association.

Dr. James P. Simonds, chairman of the division of pathology of the Northwestern university medical school, was among those who held that death from coronary sclerosis was possible.

"Coronary sclerosis with occlusion [a closing or shutting up in the artery] will cause sudden death," said Dr. Eustace L. Benjamin, pathologist of Evanston hospital.

GOVERNOR WEAK WHEN HE TALKS TO REPORTERS

Raps Foe's Conduct of State Office.

Springfield, Ill., March 17 [Special].—Gov. Henry Horner, in a third floor sun parlor of the executive mansion, today handed newspaper men copies of a bitter personal attack on Lieut. Gov. John Stelle. He charged Stelle with truth twisting and demagoguery and with political arson by way of firing class antagonisms.

Stelle, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, is opposed by Harry B. Hershey, candidate of the so-called harmony slate with the personal indorsement of Horner.

The governor's statement was issued to representatives of the press services and the Springfield newspapers in the presence of two harmony slate candidates—Louie E. Lewis, who seeks the nomination for lieutenant governor, and Homer Mat Adams, candidate for state treasurer.

Movement Seems Impaired.

Horner, dressed in a gray business suit, greeted the newspapermen from his chair in the sun parlor. He shook hands with each, but gave only one personal recognition.

To shake hands with the governor it was necessary to step close to his chair and grasp the hand raised a few inches from his lap. He seemed either unable or without the energy to make use of his upper right arm. All control over the long cigar that the governor smoked during the conference was exercised thru use of his forearm and hand. The upper arm—from elbow to shoulder—remained listlessly at his side.

It was the consensus of those present that the governor appeared weaker today than at the last general press conference six weeks ago or at any other time when newspapermen have been admitted to the mansion since he first became ill in November, 1938.

Difficult to Concentrate.

The governor's difficulty in concentrating on a single subject seemed pronounced during the conference. He began talking on a number of different topics, but lacked either the will or the strength to carry most of them to a conclusion. His voice, extremely low thruout the conference, on occasion would dwindle until it was inaudible.

The governor appeared tired and haggard, but smiled occasionally at remarks from his interviewers. As if thoroly weary from his long siege of illness, he sat slumped in his easy chair. His left leg remained crossed over his right during the entire period except when a photographer moved it slightly and adjusted his trouser leg.

Irked by Revision of Text.

In glancing over the prepared statement before handing copies to reporters, Horner criticized certain passages that apparently he failed to recognize as self-inspired and other passages that apparently had been toned down from his original idea. In one passage, where the word "inefficient" had been used, the governor pointed out that originally he had used the word "crooked."

He asked: "Can't a fellow make his own conversation any more?"

There was no answer.

In enlarging on the criticism made in his statement of Stelle's handling of state government while he was ill in Florida last year, Horner said Stelle had failed because he "didn't veto any bills or get any legislation passed." Horner added that he returned to Illinois from his two months' stay in Florida two months before his physicians wished "because of Stelle."

Some Reporters Barred.

Only four reporters were permitted to see Horner. Other newspaper men in Springfield were not informed about the press conference until it was over. During the conference, Gov. Horner remarked with surprise about the absence of one of the reporters who had not been invited and asked why this man had not been in to see him.

This reporter and several others have sought for some time to see the governor and have been unable to get permission of the so-called bedside cabinet to pass the guard at the mansion door.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 17.—A Brooklyn murder syndicate charged with at least ten gang slayings was reported to have been smashed tonight. Kings County [Brooklyn] District Attorney William F. O'Dwyer said that among the murders believed to have been solved was that of Irving Penn, a respectable music publishing house executive, who was slain in a case of mistaken identity last summer.

Ten arrests already have been made. So complete was the round-up that O'Dwyer believes he can send 10 or 12 members of the ring to the electric chair, including Abe Reles, Martin Goldstein, and Harry Strauss, notorious gangsters, who, he charged, directed the murder syndicate, which he said was composed of little shots and big shots. He said they had a hand in almost any racket "you can name, including extortion, intimidation of business, and murder."

May Implicate "Big Shots."

It also is possible, O'Dwyer added, that evidence will involve Charles Luciano, former New York City vice lord, now in prison; Louis Buchalter, alias Lepke, and the latter's partner in crime, Jacob Shapiro, as employers of the syndicate before they were sentenced for lesser crimes.

Penn was shot down last July when mistaken for a witness against Lepke, whom the syndicate had ordered removed. Seymour Magoon shot Penn while Goldstein drove the murder car, O'Dwyer said.

The arrests followed confessions of two members of the syndicate. The two informants, Anthony Maffetore and Abraham Levine, were taken into custody several weeks ago when O'Dwyer began his roundup of the Reles mob, all of whom are being held as vagrants without bail.

Other Killings Solved.

The murders solved by their confessions, O'Dwyer said, included the following:

Joseph Amberg, Brooklyn racketeer, killed in a garage; Emmanuel Kessler, chauffeur for Amberg; Irving Amron, strong arm man; Abraham Meers of the Bronx, who was killed on the same night in September, 1935, as Amron, and his body thrown from a car in Brooklyn; Alex Alpert, shot in the back as he walked in a Brooklyn street, Nov. 25, 1933; Joseph Rosen, Brooklyn truckman and witness against Lepke; George Rudnick, gangster, whose body was found in a sedan in Brooklyn in May, 1937; Walter Sage, a killer for the syndicate, slain, and his body tied to a slot machine and thrown into a lake.

Murder Price $10 to $20.

Levine said it was the policy of the syndicate to train boys to do the killings and to steal cars later used in the murders. Then, he said, when the gunmen became too deeply involved in the gang's activities they were murdered by successors.

Maffetore said the leaders had received large sums for the murder assignments, but that he and other gunmen received as little as $10 and $20 for doing the shooting.

In recounting the story of the killing of Penn, Levine confirmed the police theory that the daylight murder was a "mistake." Levine is said to have admitted that he stole the car used by Penn's killers.

STATE OF WASHINGTON AT BEDSIDE AS DOCTORS REMOVE AN APPENDIX

Seattle, Wash., March 17 (AP).—Louis G. Cameron's appendix was removed over a statewide radio hookup today. Dr. Edwin A. Nixon of the Washington State Medical association, stood near the operating table with a microphone, giving the radio audience a "play by play" description. After the operation Cameron was able to say "Hello." Cameron, whose appendix was due for extraction anyhow, agreed to the broadcast, sponsored by the association.

One Tree Forest Fire Is Put Out by 7 Engine Companies

A 30 foot poplar tree in front of 1845 Wellington avenue caught fire last night. Seven fire trucks roared up and firemen put out the blaze, which presumably was started by a cigaret tossed from an apartment window. And then, because the tree was dead and dangerous in its charred condition, the firemen turned woodchoppers and had the tree down in a jiffy.

A $10 Gadget Does Farmer's Work for Him

BY HOMER NEISZ.

Did you ever see a corn row running in a spiral, and eight miles long from start to finish?

Frank W. Andrew of Palmyra in Macoupin county, had six of them on his mother's farm last year, two in each of three small fields. He plants only two rows to a field. He plans to plant some larger fields of corn this spring with rows much longer than eight miles. Last year his largest fields had only 6.3 acres.

Arrow Locates Andrew Farm.

The Andrew fields naturally are not of the conventional shape, altho they are laid out inside an ordinary rectangular field of 88 acres. The planted fields are circular and the "endless" rows wind round and round in spirals from the outside of the circle to its center. They are worked by an ordinary farm tractor operated automatically without a driver. The only reason for two rows to a field instead of one is that the corn is planted with a two row planter.

Work Begun in 1938.

This circle farming was started when young Andrew, now 25 years old, came home from the University of Illinois in the summer of 1938, after his graduation from the college of agriculture there, to manage his mother's farm. His father had died the previous spring.

Here was Andrew's chance to try out some of his original ideas about farming. He long had thought it would be a fine thing if farmers could grow their crops without spending so much time driving back and forth across dusty fields plowing, preparing seed beds, planting, and cultivating.

SMITH'S RECORDS ARE TRACED TO PONTIAC VAULT

Learn 8 Sealed Packages Hold Documents.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 17.—F. Lynden Smith's private records of the campaign funds which he handled for the Horner political machine were located today in a vault of his lumber company in Pontiac, Ill. The records are contained in eight packages, all sealed, it was learned.

They were traced to Paul Sparks, manager of the company, from Smith's office in the state department of public works and buildings here, and from his Springfield residence.

A telephone call to Sparks' home this afternoon was answered by Donald Smith, brother of Lyn Smith.

"My brother's records are wrapped in paper and bound with cords that will not be cut except under the jurisdiction of a court," said Donald. "They are in a vault at the lumber yard. Mr. Sparks probably will be appointed administrator of the estate tomorrow. As far as I know there was no will.

"The information in the records will be available to any one who obtains permission of the court to look at them."

Tells Friends of Fears.

Whereabouts of the records had been the subject of speculation since Smith, who had become estranged from Gov. Henry Horner, was found dead March 9 in a bathtub in a Springfield hospital. Smith was director of the state department of public works and buildings.

Smith was quoted as telling friends he feared he would be "bumped off for knowing too much." He said too that the information in his records was his protection.

It was learned, in trailing the records, that Smith emptied his office and residence files of private papers on the day before he departed for Florida as a political exile for the duration of the current primary campaign.

Most of these papers were dispatched by automobile messenger to Sparks at Pontiac. A few memoranda were retained in a tan leather file case with double combination locks. This leather case Smith took to Florida, keeping his eye on it at all hotel stops. Donald Smith said today he did not know where this case is.

Inquest to Be Resumed.

The records are said to be pertinent to a suit in the Sangamon county Circuit court here for an accounting of the 2 per cent Democratic campaign assessment against salaries of state employés. Smith and eight other Horner appointees were named defendants in this action. Hearings on motions and petitions in the litigation are scheduled for this week before Judge L. E. Stone.

Coroner W. L. Dragoo of Sangamon county said the inquest into Smith's death probably would be resumed on Tuesday. The coroner asserted he has not decided whether to present to the jury the story of knife wounds which Smith inflicted upon himself 36 hours before he was found dead.

Four pathologists who made a second autopsy of Smith's body Friday found that death was caused by coronary sclerosis, a heart ailment, altho previously other physicians suggested death might have been due to drowning in the bathtub.

Coroner Dragoo also was undecided as to whether he should go into the matter of Smith's life insurance at the inquest. It was said Smith had a policy for $15,000 or $25,000 which provides for double indemnity in case of accidental death.

Gov. Horner's Attack on Stelle

Springfield, Ill., March 17 [Special].—The statement given out by Gov. Henry Horner today, in which he assailed Lieut. Gov. Stelle, said:

"My duty to uphold and protect the interests of Illinois is a constant and unwavering loyalty. My vigilance and eagerness to defend the principles of party action would be unavailing if I did not protest and puncture some of the snide strategies now being adopted by certain aspirants for public office.

"To tolerate the truth-twisting and desperate demagogry of the present lieutenant governor and his fellow conspirators in trying to becloud my record and my integrity of purpose with doubt and suspicion would be exhibiting a brand of cowardice akin to theirs.

Calls Him a Political Pawn.

"This last minute conspiracy to disrupt party unity and coerce by confusion is beyond the limited vision and connivance of the present lieutenant governor. As a political pawn and malicious mouthpiece of a frantic and bitterly hostile anti-Roosevelt press, such as THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, he is bartering his hypocrisy for headlines.

"The lieutenant governor's attitude on public service always has been 'What about me?' and not 'What about the people of Illinois?'

"The Illinois Democracy in the coming primary will decide whether to eliminate those principles that advance the common welfare of all our citizens or eliminate the self-seeking Stelles.

"The people who want security in their homes and stability in their livelihood cannot afford government by personal whim, nor the Stelle system of benefiting his own status before benefiting the state.

Safeguards Killed.

"On many occasions, when the people of Illinois have sought to protect their natural resources and insure their welfare by sound legislative action, they reckoned without the Stelle gavel in the Illinois senate—that rapped those sound legislative safeguards into oblivion.

"This is not a belated protest because of his present outrages against my motives and public statements. Many times in the past I have given utterance of my fears to the people of Illinois about ever leaving the state while governor—realizing that my administration would be subject to a Stelle jeopardy—ruthless and without conscience.

"And when I said that I did not trust him in or out of court, I wanted to convey a plain avowal of my conviction that the present lieutenant governor, by his own admission as a born plunger, would gamble any stake of public well-being against his private hunch and unquenchable avarice to rule or ruin.

Move to Divide Party.

"His passion for preferment is swollen with a wealth of promises, but is empty in its poverty of performance. No political smudge with which he blackens others will whitewash him. No convenient vagueness nor benign omission of President Roosevelt's humanitarian purposes can strengthen his cause nor lend comfort to the opposition.

"The lieutenant governor, in resorting to the shallow and spurious strategy of half-praise and half-blame about my administration, only emphasizes his own laxity and inefficiency during his five months as acting governor of Illinois.

"For five months, as acting governor, he did not lift a hand to remedy what he now condemns.

Charges Appeal to Class Bias.

"Public confidence is not weaned on private hatreds nor appeals to class bias. Word poisoning is a current epidemic of the Illinois primary. The present rantings of the lieutenant governor, arraying class against class and creed against creed, is meant to ignite those bestial passions of intolerance and bigotry and cremate reason.

"The people of Illinois do not believe that a public official can serve the state government and the oil syndicates at the same time.

"How many oil wells does the lieutenant governor own? In how many oil syndicates does he have a financial interest?

"Why do the business enterprises, such as creameries, brick yards, and oil refineries, in which he is interested, employ nonunion help?

"How could the secretary of his law partner be deeded certain oil properties and leases from powerful oil interests without encouraging the suspicion that legislation favorable to the big oil companies is more important than the conservation of the state's great natural resources?

Sound Legislation Blocked.

"Why did the lieutenant governor block every effort for sound oil legislation and straddle the issue between conservation and proration?

"Why did the press of Illinois and other oil states consistently oppose the participation of the lieutenant governor in the formulation of a sound public policy of the oil industry?

"Why has the lieutenant governor helped to deny the state of Illinois the necessary legitimate taxes from the oil industry that would help to support relief and reduce other emergency taxes?

"Why has the lieutenant governor placed a dead hand upon constructive and adequate oil legislation to provide the necessary revenue that would have enabled Illinois to match and receive its full share of social security grants in aid from the federal government for old age assistance and dependent children?

Questions Remain Unanswered.

"These are the questions that thousands of anxious citizens in Illinois have asked the 'three-in-one oil boys' and which still are unanswered.

"If they now condemn the acceptance of voluntary contributions from state employés to sustain the state Democracy, why did they approve the practice and act as agents for the party up until their recent run-out?

"Where are the 'three-in-one boys' getting the funds to finance their billboards and elaborate publicity? What concessions are they making for their primary donations that will appease the big business lobbies and the legislation of special interests?

"The political opportunism of the lieutenant governor has brought about his slavery to expediency. The one burning question which every loyal citizen of the Illinois Democracy is asking him—'Why do you say that Roosevelt is not the issue?—has gone unanswered."

The Horner statement closed with an appeal for support of the organization slate in the April 9 primary.

G-MEN ABANDON WIRE TAPPING, JACKSON SAYS

Washington, D. C., March 17 (AP).—Attorney General Robert H. Jackson announced today that wire tapping had been abandoned by the department of justice as a method of detecting criminals.

This, he added, was in conformity with Supreme court decisions that evidence obtained in such a manner could not be used in prosecutions. He recommended, however, that congress authorize wire tapping in a limited class of cases, such as kidnaping, extortion, and racketeering.

Jackson's announcement follows a recommendation by the senate interstate commerce committee that the senate order an investigation of wire tapping. The committee made no reference to any enforcement agency, but Chairman Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] said it had in mind, among others, the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Jackson declared that in view of "widespread charges of indiscriminate wire tapping," it was only fair to J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, to state that on two occasions he had advised against wire tapping.

The FBI has used wire tapping "very little," Jackson said, and only in cases of "extreme importance." He added that without it several kidnaping cases would not have been solved.

TOBEY CHARGES HOPKINS FLOUTS LAW ON CENSUS

Brands Income Questions Illegal, Autocratic.

Washington, D. C., March 17 (AP).—Senator Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.] today accused Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins of "flouting the law and the constitution by commanding the people to answer illegal questions" in the census. Hopkins promptly replied: "I have two honorary law degrees to his one."

Tobey made public a letter to Hopkins in which he called the secretary a burocrat who was attempting to subject the American people to old world, autocratic methods by demanding to know their earnings and income. The letter, and Hopkins' statement in reply, were new developments in a battle of the census which has produced a series of exchanges between the two.

Specifically, Tobey's letter was an answer to Hopkins' action yesterday in criticizing Tobey's admonition that no one need answer the income questions altho the law permits fines and imprisonment for refusing to answer.

Hopkins yesterday told Tobey that "the spectacle of a United States senator calling for resistance to authority of government" was a menace to the processes of self government.

Shades of Mein Kampf!

"Shades of Hitler and Mein Kampf!" Senator Tobey wrote in his letter to Hopkins. "Any one who is able to diminish the 'self government' of a burocrat is rendering a service to democracy."

Tobey agreed with Hopkins that in the constitution the founding fathers ordered citizens to answer census questions. He contended, however, that this involved only a count of the people and not the type of inquiries being made in what he termed the present inquisition.

As for Hopkins' charges that the senator was urging citizens to violate the law and was violating his senatorial oath to support the constitution, Tobey said:

"What law, Mr. Secretary? Surely you are not still contending that an unauthorized ruling of a departmental bureau constitutes a law of the United States, particularly where, as in this case, you threaten the people of a free country with imprisonment for not bowing to your will?

Charges Law's Flouted.

"You, as a responsible head of a department, are flouting the law and the constitution by commanding the people to answer these illegal questions or go to jail. I am amazed that you boldly indicate that even tho the senate should vote that [in its opinion] the income questions are illegal and never authorized by congress, such a vote would in no sense shake you from your determination to insist upon these questions."

This attitude, Tobey said, caused apprehension that the government has an ulterior purpose in demanding this information.

In his reply to Tobey's letter, Hopkins said:

"Perhaps the thought might seep thru to Senator Tobey as he sits on his judicial throne omnipotently decreeing what is and what is not constitutional, that frequently the meaning of the law depends upon what particular lawyer you ask to define it. Congress and the Supreme court have told me what lawyer to consult, and curiously enough, despite his honorary law degree, that person is not Senator Tobey."

Question Called Most Important.

The senator has introduced a resolution which would record the senate as disapproving of the income questions. It has been approved by the commerce committee, but the senate leaders said there is little chance that it would be considered by the senate before the census begins April 2.

In a statement today, Edward J. Noble, undersecretary of commerce, described the income question as most important for solution of the argument over how many unemployed there are in this country. The questions are: The amount of salary, or wages, received last year [up to $5,000] and whether there was income in excess of $50 from other sources.

The questions, Noble said, would supply needed data on the lower brackets where unemployment is most acute. He estimated these questions would be asked of 98,000,000 persons, 14 years old and over, and would reveal the potential labor force of the nation, which he said now is in excess of 50,000,000.

Five thousand members of the Combined Irish Alliance of Cook County attended church yesterday wearing the real McCoy—shamrocks shipped from Ireland. With true Irish luck, the shamrocks slipped thru the British blockade inspection without delay and arrived on time for St. Patrick's day-Palm Sunday celebrations.

Miss Lorraine McCann, a pretty 19 year old blonde also was lucky. For the third consecutive year she was elected queen of the Sons and Daughters of Eire at the Merry Garden ballroom, winning over 25 other candidates.

Chicago's first St. Patrick's day baby was born at 12:04 a. m. in Henrotin hospital to Mrs. Catherine Riordan, wife of Dennis Riordan, 2705 South Kedzie avenue. Riordan said the 6½ pound baby girl will be named Denise.

In his home at 2026 North Sayre avenue, Edward Patrick Redding celebrated his 81st St. Patrick's day—and his 81st birthday.

FARMING AREAS BATTLEFIELD ON 3D TERM ISSUE

Primaries Are Expected to Forecast Trend.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 17.—With the great agricultural states of the middle west looming large as the principal battleground of the 1940 presidential election the forthcoming primaries in that territory are taking on a prophetic aspect.

Their outcome not only may profoundly influence the contest for the presidential nomination in each of the major parties, but foreshadow the result of the November elections.

New York, of course, will be a battleground in the election, for ordinarily, because the Democrats start with the solid south in the bag, the Republicans cannot win without the 47 electoral votes of the Empire State. But this time, if President Roosevelt be renominated for a third term, southern defections might make it impossible for him to win without the electoral vote of his state.

Have 146 Electoral Votes.

The battle will rage the hottest, however, in the midwestern farm constituencies of Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Kansas with a total of 146 electoral votes. This was traditional Republican territory until it was captured by the New Deal.

There are indications aplenty now that the farmers are backsliding from the New Deal and returning to their old time fealty. Straws showing how the political wind is blowing were furnished by the recent by-elections in Ohio and Iowa in which Republican congressmen were returned by increased majorities.

Furthermore, the Roosevelt administration has been aware for some time of the reaction against the AAA among the farmers of the corn and wheat belts. There are two factors in this discontent. One is the widespread feeling among farmers that their condition has not been bettered by the New Deal farm relief schemes. The other is the repugnance to regimented crop restriction.

Republicans Advance Plan.

Now come the Republicans making it pretty evident that, if returned to power, they will continue government subsidies to farmers while seeking to control surpluses by increasing exports instead of restricting production. How to stem the tide of this agricultural defection is taxing the political acumen of the President and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Their latest effort was the glorification of the AAA in radio speeches to the 600 farmer dinners organized last week by the department of agriculture to celebrate the seventh anniversary of the New Deal farm plan.

The primaries in Wisconsin on April 2 and in Illinois and Nebraska on April 9 are looked to for a variety of political straws. Popular sentiment for and against a third term for President Roosevelt will be tested particularly in the Illinois and Wisconsin primaries in which the issue is squarely drawn between the President and Vice President Garner.

The New Dealers expect these two primaries to end the battle for the Democratic nomination. They are confident that the President will receive a vote for the presidential preference in Illinois so overwhelming and will get so nearly the total number of 82 delegates in Illinois and Wisconsin as to eliminate further opposition. Illinois and Wisconsin, they think, will lay the ghost of the antithird term tradition.

They look forward, therefore, to the evaporation of the Garner candidacy into thin air within the next month and a triumphal progress thereafter for the President to his nomination on the first ballot at Chicago.

Mr. Garner apparently entertains no illusions of his chances of making a better showing than the President in Illinois where the Democratic machine is greased to roll up a record breaking vote for Mr. Roosevelt.

Optimistic in Illinois.

Garner does expect, however, to poll so large a vote on the Illinois preference ballot and to get so many delegates in both Illinois and Wisconsin as to render the election of Mr. Roosevelt doubtful even if he were to accept renomination.

The Garner candidacy in reality has become a third term test. No longer is Mr. Garner considered a serious possibility for the nomination. Mr. Roosevelt can have the nomination if he wants it. What Mr. Garner does expect to accomplish is to mobilize so large an antithird term vote as to convince Mr. Roosevelt the nomination is not worth his taking.

Garner thinks he has reason to believe that strong antithird term sentiment will be recorded in the vote for him in the farm constituencies of both Illinois and Wisconsin, indicating the middle west would go against the President for reëlection.

In the primary in New Hampshire last week Mr. Roosevelt won the delegates, but the vote for Garner and Farley delegates, if founded on antithird term sentiment, was ominous.

Held in $1,500 Theft

LORRAINE SHAFFER.

The Rogers Park police yesterday were holding Miss Lorraine Shaffer, 17 years old, for the theft of money and jewelry and clothing worth $1,500 from the home of Raymond S. Pohn, 2315 Arthur avenue, last January. The police were also holding two other women and three men for investigation in connection with the theft.

Miss Shaffer told Detectives A. Murray and T. Constant that she came to the city from Belleville, Mich., last November. She answered a help wanted advertisment and was employed by Pohn. A week later she disappeared, and the theft was discovered. Some of the jewelry and clothing were recovered in her apartment at 15 South Oakley boulevard.

The others held by police are Mrs. Lee Scaletta, 29, and Miss Kay Wilson, 19, of the Oakley boulevard address; Joseph Rizzo, 32, an ex-convict from Michigan, and William Pellegrini, 30, and Frank Torino, 28, both of whom are said to have police records.

GARNER BACKERS SEEK G. O. P. HELP TO NIP 3D TERM

Want Republican Votes in Wisconsin Primary.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., March 17.—Many Wisconsin Republicans whose first political hope is to defeat Roosevelt and stop the third term movement may enter the Democratic primary April 2 and support Garner pledged candidates to the Democratic convention. The idea has been subtly injected in the campaign by Garner's supporters here and seems to have met a good deal of response from Republicans.

This type of strategy is possible under Wisconsin's topsy turvy election laws which impose no rules of party regularity in primary elections.

The Garner men argue that it is only of secondary interest to the Republicans whether their party nominates United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg or Thomas E. Dewey, the only Republican candidates who have pledged delegate candidates.

Choice Up to Convention.

The chief Republican candidates are satisfactory and the choice will be made by the convention anyway, they assert. The real objective of the Republicans, they contend, is to defeat Roosevelt for the nomination and it can best be done in the Democratic primary.

Antithird term Republicans can start Roosevelt on the road to defeat by voting against him in the Democratic primary and follow it up by voting for the Republican candidate in the election, the strategists say. There is said to be a Republican organization opposed to a third term now being formed to give all aid it can give to the Garner candidates.

Rival Slates in Field.

The argument is that by a whooping Roosevelt defeat in the primary here, where outsiders think everyone is more or less liberal, not to say radical, would do more than anything else to influence the national convention against his nomination, if it did not even result in bringing out a no third term declaration from the President.

The Garner delegates are believed to have a good chance at election because of the split in Roosevelt strength between two rival slates. Garner folks would not be content to elect their delegates, but want to get a clear majority of votes cast in the primary.

Three Young South Siders Seized in Filling Station

Three south side residents were held as alleged burglars by Englewood police last night. They are Maynard Jager, 1232 West 74th place, and Arthur Jung, 6246 South Sacramento avenue, who are on probation in the Boys' court, and William Burke, 7416 May street. Each is 18 years old. They were captured in the filling station office at 257 West 69th street by Policemen Patrick Keating, Martin McGowan, James Hagen, and James Lyons. They had broken into the station, police said.

HOLD NEGRO, 20, AFTER ATTACK ON WHITE WOMAN

Edward W. Snyder, 20 years old, a Negro, was held by Franklin Park police last night after he confessed an attempt to rape a married white woman. Snyder lives at 3210 North Odell avenue.

The woman is a neighbor, and is 40 years old. According to police, she has known Snyder, the only colored person in the neighborhood, since he was a child. He had often played with her own son.

Early yesterday, police said Snyder met her in a neighborhood tavern and offered to drive her home. Instead he drove her out to a place off Belmont avenue, near River road in Franklin Park, and attempted to attack her police said. Policeman Ray Sapp heard her screams and seized Snyder.

HOPE DWINDLES FOR 71 TRAPPED BY MINE BLAST

Rescue Crews Push Work; 4 Dead, 115 Out Alive.

St. Clairsville, O., March 17 (AP).—The number of men trapped in the Willow Grove mine disaster was placed officially at 71 tonight by mine operators who virtually abandoned hope of reaching them alive.

"After a careful check it appears 44 men are entombed in the 22-west chamber and 27 others in adjacent works," reported W. H. McWilliam, public relations counsel for the Hanna Coal company of Cleveland, owners of the mine.

The men were trapped by a devastating explosion shortly after 11 a. m. yesterday. Four others were killed and 115 gassed or injured.

3 Miles from Entrance.

John Owens, president of the United Mine Workers of Ohio [C. I. O.] said: "It will be a miracle if any of them come out alive."

The company's general manager, R. V. Clay, reported the men trapped in the 22-west chamber were about three miles from the mine entrance. They were working as a unit. The other 25 were in scattered groups when the explosion struck.

"Hope of reaching them alive is dwindling fast," Clay said. "We're doing everything possible and will spare no effort to get them out."

John Richards, mine superintendent, and Howard Sanders, tipple foreman, died after breathing afterdamp gas in a daring attempt to free their comrades. H. C. Kelly, member of a rescue crew, identified the other dead as John Marks, a motorman, and Ralph Sutton.

Many in Hospitals.

Virtually all of the 115 who came from the blast-shattered tunnels required medical treatment. A number were hospitalized at Bellaire, Martins Ferry, Wheeling, and Belmont.

Workmen entering the explosion area today with masks and 40 pound oxygen tanks found wreckage much worse than expected. The body of one victim, they said, was crushed against one of many mine cars strewn topsy turvy along mine passages.

Public prayers for the missing men were given in churches of many communities scattered thru the southeastern Ohio hills. At Willow Grove Village, four miles south of here and adjacent to the mine, a Catholic priest broke into tears in the midst of his sermon.

ALDERMEN OPEN STUDY OF JUKE BOX TOMORROW

A subcommittee of the city council license committee will hold an inquiry tomorrow morning into the juke box business in the city. The hearing will seek to determine whether the city will supervise the playing of mechanical phonographs in taverns and, if a license fee is to be assessed, how much it shall be.

Ald. Bernard J. O'Hallaren [18th], chairman of the subcommittee, has invited juke box owners to present their side of the case. There are 10,000 of the automatic phonographs in the city, and a license fee as high as $50 for each one has been discussed by the committee. The boxes are serviced by members of Michael Boyle's Electrical Workers' union, local 134.

REPORT RIVERS TO CALL TROOPS IF JAIL LOOMS

Georgia Governor Due in U. S. Court Friday.

Atlanta, Ga., March 17 [Special].—While controversy spread thruout Georgia today with newspapers and citizens assailing and defending a Federal court's civil contempt arrest of Gov. E. D. Rivers, the governor was reported preparing to mobilize and use, if necessary, the Georgia National Guard, comprising 5,000 officers and enlisted men, to avoid serving a possible jail sentence.

Gov. E. D. Rivers.

Gov. Rivers was arrested Friday night by a United States marshal in Macon, Ga., on charges of civil contempt of the middle Georgia District United States court in connection with his refusal to obey an injunction order against interference with W. L. Miller as state highway chairman.

Gov. Rivers "fired" Miller in December and since has barred him from office by martial law rule over the state highway building, despite both state and federal court opinions recognizing Miller's claim that the governor was without authority in dismissing him.

Due to Appear Friday.

Following his arrest, Gov. Rivers was released by Judge Bascom S. Deaver on his promise to appear in court at Macon next Friday morning.

Meanwhile there was every indication that Gov. Rivers is preparing for a finish fight. A copyrighted story appearing today in the Atlanta Constitution, written by L. A. Farrell, political writer and close friend of the governor said:

"A proclamation extending martial law into certain sections of Bibb county [Macon], particularly the areas adjoining the Macon federal building where the governor will appear Friday, and directing military authorities to summon to active duty enough troops to cope with any force of deputies called out by United States Marshal E. B. Doyle, is in the making and will be issued by Rivers before going to Macon.

Stoddard Called Home.

"Adjt. Gen. John E. Stoddard, who, like the governor, is under summons to answer the contempt charges, was called to Atlanta from Washington, where he has been attending to duties in the war department and full command of the Macon situation will be placed in his hands."

If the governor issues such a proclamation, it is presumed that he will not attempt to declare martial law over the federal building itself, but over the territory adjacent to the federal property.

There is a detention room, but no jail within the federal building at Macon and if a sentence is meted out by Judge Deaver, it was pointed out, the prisoner must be removed from the buliding to a jail. Thus, under the governor's reported martial law plan, if that removal occurs the National Guardsmen would demand release of the governor.

Two Moves Considered.

It was understood that several legal maneuvers will be made prior to the governor's appearance before Judge Deaver. Chief of these was expected to be an appearance by special assistant attorneys general before Judge Deaver tomorrow or Tuesday to file a motion of appeal and ask a supersedeas of any sentence the court may impose before that sentence is handed out.

Rivers, who has charged the Federal court action constitutes an invasion of state's rights, conferred yesterday and until late last night with Georgia Attorney General Ellis Arnall.

FIREMEN RESCUE TWO FAMILIES. Firemen rescued two families yesterday when smoke from a fire in their apartment building at 6407 North Hamilton avenue cut off their escape. Damage to the building was estimated at $400.

A WINTER WEARY CITY AWAKENS IN MAGIC OF SPRING

Sun Lures Thousands to Avenues and Parks.

Chicago turned out of doors yesterday to rejoice in its first spring Sunday of 1940. The sun shone steadily thru a soft, blue haze, a light wind blew from the west, and the thermometer soared to 63 degrees at 1:55 p. m.

Churchgoers, many of them bearing the palm leaves and crosses of Palm Sunday, others wearing a shamrock or a touch of green for St. Patrick, made a triumphant parade on the boulevards. Men disentangled themselves from their overcoats and topcoats and women freely displayed noses they knew the wind would not redden.

Top o' the Morning, Ladies!

The first Sunday morning top hat of the season strolled majestically down Michigan avenue. Beneath it was shining white hair, and with it went a cane. Its owner met two elderly ladies with a cavalierly sweep of the hat and a deep, deep bow.

Thousands strolled thru the city parks, many to view the spring flowers in the Garfield park conservatory, others [an estimated 100,000] to watch the animals at the Lincoln park zoo, still others to sit on benches and watch the world drift quietly by. Only Lake Michigan, its shores still fringed with high winter ice, was neglected; no pleasure craft ventured out.

Horsemen Out for Gallop.

Early horsemen thronged the forest preserves. Few hikers ventured out, as the ground, newly thawed, was a mire, but hundreds swarmed to the Trailside museum in River Forest to learn about what they may find when they do start hiking.

An estimated 20,000 persons visited the Brookfield zoo, where the animals cavorted in the sun and where a collection of 31 rare species of reptiles and birds had just been received from Guatemala.

Skeptics may doubt spring's arrival, but the wild geese know. A flock of 250 was sighted winging its V-shaped way northward.

Sergt. Curtin Identifies Bandit Who Wounded Him

Sergt. Michael Curtin, former bodyguard of Mayor Kelly, yesterday identified Andrew Foster, 26 years old, colored, as the bandit who shot and seriously wounded him on March 8 at 48th street and Drexel boulevard. The identification was made in the Chicago hospital, where Curtin's condition was reported improving. Foster, who was arrested the day after the shooting, confessed, stating that he had intended to rob Curtin. The bandit was wounded by Curtin.

A Tractor Runs Over Tony, but He Comes Up Smiling

Gretna, Neb., March 17 [Special].—A 3,000 pound tractor ran over Tony Melia's head and shoulders but he didn't even get a headache. Melia was using the tractor to get his truck, stuck in the mud, on the road. Standing on the ground, he had his foot on the clutch. His feet slipped, the tractor started and he was thrown in front of it. Bruises showed the lugs of the tractor had pressed upon his head, neck, and shoulders.

MILLIKAN DOUBTS COSMIC RAYS CAN BE PUT TO WORK

San Francisco, Cal., March 17 (AP).—Dr. Robert A. Millikan, noted scientist, back from a research trip in equatorial regions, today expressed the belief that cosmic rays never would be harnessed effectively for practical use.

Seeking to determine the extent of cosmic radiation in equatorial latitudes, Dr. Millikan and his associates, Dr. H. Victor Neher and William H. Pickering, spent seven months in India.

Altho cosmic rays are perhaps 1,000 times as powerful as the strongest radiation produced during atomic explosions in laboratories, they do not occur frequently enough near the earth's surface to form a steady flow of energy, Dr. Millikan said.

The earth is a huge magnet, with magnetic lines running in great numbers thru the atmosphere between its north and south poles, somewhat paralleling the meridians of longitude. As a result, rays approaching the globe from outer space are affected according to the latitude at which they strike, Dr. Millikan explained.

TREAD PATH OF CHRIST TO OLD JERUSALEM IN PALM SUNDAY RITES

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Mach 17 (AP).—The bells of Jerusalem today pealed their message that "the Savior has entered the Holy City" in the impressive Palm Sunday observance beginning Holy Week.

Hundreds of worshipers, including a number of British, French, and Australian officers, walked from Bethany—ancient home of Martha and Mary—into Jerusalem along paths taken by Christ.

The acting Latin patriarch, Msgr. Franz Fellinger, solemnly entered the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, followed by the clergy of all the Catholic orders.

The Eastern Orthodox Palm Sunday will not be celebrated until April 21. The Greek Orthodox patriarch in Jerusalem, Msgr. Timotheus, took advantage, however, of the presence of the Orthodox patriarchs from Antioch and Alexandria to hold a ceremonial procession of the liturgy in the Greek section of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre during the morning.

Betty, 8, Coughs Up Cash Meant for Church Coffers

Denver, Colo., March 17 (AP).—The Palm Sunday worship of 8 year old Betty Ricketts ended abruptly. She gulped just before the collection plate was passed. At a hospital physicians removed from her stomach a penny intended for the plate.

LINER, DELAYED IN MAIL DISPUTE, DEPARTS TODAY

New York, March 17 [Special].—Officials of the Norwegian-America Line announced late tonight that the steamer Bergensfjord would sail for Europe tomorrow morning, and hinted that a mail controversy with American customs officials would be settled by then.

The ship was scheduled to sail Saturday, but was refused clearance papers when it refused to carry American mail to avoid being taken into the British contraband station at Kirkwall, Scotland. Line officials are especially anxious to skip Kirkwall because Germany has warned that any neutral ship which enters an enemy port even under compulsion forfeits its neutrality.

It was said tonight that the British embassy had agreed to take the ship into Belfast, Ireland, rather than Kirkwall. At the embassy in Washington, D. C., however, it was announced that all angles of the case still were being studied.

Gregory O'Keefe, assistant collector of the port of New York, explained he had no alternative in holding up the Bergensfjord's papers, because postal statutes provide that if the postmaster general offers mail to a ship it must be taken.

Kills Himself as Science Battles to Save His Life

Denver., Colo., March 17 (AP).—A man facing death while lying in an oxygen tent used his waning strength to stab and kill himself with a pocketknife kept by his bed to open letters. Calvin Campbell, 48 years old, twice drove the two inch blade into his chest after a nurse stepped out of the room. Death came two hours later. Physicians told of Campbell's successive illnesses: Chronic stomach ulcers, pneumonia, heart attack—nine major operations in recent years.

SCIENCE TURNS GARDENER

By CALEB

A FAIRY fable, almost—tobacco plants 20 feet high; unbelievable tomatoes, corn, melons, peas, squash, and other magically endowed vegetables! But we're getting ahead of our story . . .

A German agricultural chemist named Knop was busy with something else in his science-shop, when he noticed that beans were sprouting and growing in a dish which contained water impregnated with such chemicals as nitrogen, potassium, phosphorus, magnesium, and other essentials to plant nutrition. The year was 1859—and out of that circumstance came the new discovery variously called "chemiculture," "hydroponics," "water culture," or "soilless gardening."

This arresting idea stayed in the laboratory, however, for some seventy years more. It enabled researchers to study plant growth: the "scientific angle." But in 1931, Dr. F. W. Gericke, of the University of California, did more experimenting, and began to see ahead chemiculture's "commercial angle." Today, in fact, his work is revolutionizing that field . . . and is a whole story in itself.

Associated with Dr. Gericke was Ernest W. Brundin of Montebello, California—and during 1937 the latter turned his scientific attention to chemical, or "soilless," floriculture. Long months of research brought the same wonders Dr. Gericke's studies had given the agriculturist; the lovely sequel being the Mineral Maid Chemi-Gardens now exclusively featured on our second floor.

So far as the flower and plant lover is concerned, growing procedure is simplicity itself. Graceful pottery containers are provided—urns, hanging gardens, table gardens, bowls or flower pots—in white or colors; seeds, bulbs, cuttings or potted plants are placed in the top with a thin layer of silica over the roots; and through a porous core, or "wick," water impregnated with the proper chemicals for nutrition is supplied to the roots by capillary attraction from a reservoir below.

Mineral Maid blooms thus require no re-potting, watering or fertilizing—and so little care or attention that soilless culture enthusiasts say: "Plant your flowers, and go on a vacation." Given their usual sun, air and suitable temperature, the rest is merely a matter of renewing the solution in the container.

Proved in practicality, advantages, and successful floriculture where soil-growing is impracticable, this new scientific-nurture method has remarkable possibilities of application. Professional and amateur alike have welcomed chemiculture's appearance with open arms.

HERE IS RECORD ON ORLIKOSKI AND T. V. SMITH

Unopposed for Nomination as Congressmen at Large

[This is one of a series of informal sketches about the leading candidates for state office in the April 9 primaries.]

BY PERCY WOOD.

T. V. Smith and Walter J. Orlikoski, two Chicagoans, will be nominated without opposition as the Democratic candidates for congress from the state at large on April 9. Smith already holds one of these seats and Orlikoski represents the 35th ward in the city council.

T. V. Smith [top] and Walter J. Orlikoski.

Ald. Orlikoski is a practical politician who came up the hard way. As a lad of 10 he excitedly carried a torch-light in the '96 Bryan campaign—the political spirit already bubbling within him. When a young man he became a precinct captain, wearily punching doorbells and making the essential direct contact with the voters.

Helps Swing Ward for Wilson.

As the years rolled along Orlikoski learned how to carry a ward, helping to swing his for Woodrow Wilson in the Bull Moose election in 1912. Later he held an appointive post or two and finally, in 1931, he was recognized as a seasoned party worker and went to the city hall.

This is the alderman's second attempt at state office. In 1938, when the Nash-Kelly and Horner organizations were backing separate primary slates, Orlikoski was picked to run for clerk of the Supreme court, against another Polish-American, Adam F. Bloch, then and now the clerk. Orlikoski lost the nomination.

Bald, round faced, and with an easy way about him, Orlikoski isn't embarrassed when chairmen of downstate meetings have difficulty with his name. He got used to that in 1938 and corrects them with a smile.

Smith Switches Careers.

Congressman Smith became a politician—"an ignorant man and a politician," he likes to say—thru an astonishing switch in careers.

In 1934 he was a full blown professor of philosophy—"an ignorant man, and a philosopher," he liked to say then—at the University of Chicago when Gov. Horner backed him for the state senate. His experience in punching doorbells had been limited to social calls, rather than political solicitations.

However, Smith was taken to the Democratic bosom and elected. In the senate he rendered his colleagues bug-eyed with his facile, multisyllabic vocabulary. Later he astonished the voters with anathemas leveled at the Nash-Kelly machine in 1938.

Although he had criticized his sponsor, the governor, on several occasions, Horner picked Smith to run for congressman at large on the Horner slate in 1938. He ran ahead of every one in the primary, but that fall downstate went Republican and Smith came to the Cook county line 100,000 votes behind.

Elected by His Foes.

That he was elected results entirely from the fact that his ex-whipping boys, the Nash-Kelly machine, went down the line for the ticket, giving Smith, among others, such a handsome vote that again he led all rivals.

In Washington Smith didn't overburden the congressional record with rhetoric, but gained national prominence by his series of radio debates with Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Republican presidential aspirant. Opinions differ as to who came off second best.

The congressman hails from Texas, has red hair, is above average height, and more often than not is the soul of affability. He is 50 years old, married and the father of two children.

Records of 3 Republican Municipal Court Candidates

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

Following are three more of a series of sketches of Republican candidates for judges of the Municipal court of Chicago to be nominated at the April 9 primary:

JOHN R. PHILP.

John R. Philp has been a world traveler, always with his camera in readiness. He has filmed thousands of feet of scenes in many lands and uses them to illustrate his free lectures at lodges in Chicago.

John R. Philp.

Mr. Philp was born at Crystal Lake, in McHenry county, 62 years ago. He read law in an office at Rockford and was admitted to the bar in 1896. He has been practicing since then, except when he takes time out for his travels.

He was a candidate for a Municipal court vacancy in 1920 and ran for a full term in 1928. The bar association said his personal and professional reputations were good. In this campaign he has the backing of the Deneen faction.

Mr. Philp lives at 17 East Erie street. He is unmarried.

JAMES W. COFFEY.

James W. Coffey maintains an active interest in sports, carrying on from his days at the Schurz High school, where he was a prominent athlete. In his summer home at Twin Lakes, Wis., he spends most of his time gardening. Mr. Coffey is an assistant attorney for the board of education, and at the age of 32 is one of the youngest men seeking a place on the Municipal court. He has the backing of the regular Republican organization in the 32d ward.

James W. Coffey.

He was born in Chicago, the son of Dr. Daniel David Coffey, who was head of the Chicago State hospital for many years. Mr. Coffey graduated from the Northwestern university law school in 1932 and was admitted to the bar that year.

He is married and has two children. He lives at 2043 Pierce avenue.

RAYMOND A. KINZIE.

Raymond A. Kinzie is a student of the constitution. He recalls when he could recite that document and the Declaration of Independence from memory. He lectures on these subjects regularly as a speaker for the Constitution Educational association.

Raymond A. Kinzie.

Mr. Kinzie is 47 years old. He was born in Carnegie, Pa., graduated from the University of Chicago law school, did special law work at Cornell university and was admitted to the bar in 1929.

He has made a wide study of pension law and collaborated on a book, "Pensions in Modern Industry." He is also active in civic and church work.

Mr. Kinzie lives at 2044 West 110th place. He is married and has twin daughters and a son.

HERSHEY ILLNESS UPSETS PLAN FOR CHICAGO RALLIES

Has a Cold; Delay His Introduction to City.

Harry B. Hershey, regular Democratic organization candidate for governor, probably will not be able to keep two important speaking engagements in Chicago tonight.

Charles E. Bliss, his law partner and downstate campaign manager, announced last night in Taylorville that the candidate was in bed at his home there with a severe cold and laryngitis. Bliss said Hershey's physician had advised that he stay in bed at least until tomorrow morning.

Little Known in City.

This announcement was a shock to Chicago party leaders, who had planned to introduce their candidate to the pay rollers and other workers for the machine in 30 of the city's wards. Extremely few of them have ever seen Hershey, a downstater unknown in metropolitan politics until he was chosen to take Gov. Horner's place on the state slate.

Regardless of Hershey's absence, the meetings will be held, because the other candidates on the state ticket are expectd to attend and because the chief purpose of the gatherings is to give Mayor Kelly and other leaders an opportunity to instruct the rank and file of the party to work hard and vote the ticket straight.

The two meetings tonight are at the International amphitheater in the stockyards and the Paradise ballroom. Two similar meetings are scheduled tomorrow night at the Paradise ballroom and the 122d Field Artillery armory.

Gutknecht Assails Courtney.

Municipal Judge John Gutknecht yesterday delivered another radio address attacking State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney whom he is opposing in the primary three weeks from tomorrow. He did not add any new charges to those that he already has made but amplified his former points of attack.

"The state's attorney hasn't cooperated with the police or any one else—except himself," he said.

"Why does the present state's attorney have the lip service of his former enemies, of men who never have been with him? Is he using the power of his office to force his renomination?

"The Republicans know that the Republican candidate will be the recipient of hundreds of thousands of Democratic and independent votes unless the present state's attorney loses in the primary."

LYONS AND GREEN TO DELIVER RADIO TALKS TONIGHT

The two candidates for the Republican nomination for governor deliver radio speeches tonight. Richard J. Lyons will talk at 7 p. m. and Dwight H. Green at 8 p. m. Green's topic is "Corrupt Politics. Lyons' subject was not announced.

"Last week Lyons announced he would speak about taking the sales tax off food," said James E. Hill, Lyons' campaign manager, "and that night another candidate plagiarized the theme."

Green headquarters issued a statement announcing Green's indorsement by the Joint Labor Legislative board, which includes representatives of the Illinois Federation of Labor. The same board indorsed the entire regular Democratic slate and Congressman Ralph E. Church, Republican candidate for United States senator.

CAUGHT BRITISH EATING, GERMAN FLYER ASSERTS

Bomb Attack on Scapa Flow Described.

BERLIN, March 17 (AP).—Three British battle cruisers—the 42,100 ton Hood and the 32,000 ton Renown and Repulse—were believed to have been anchored at Scapa Flow when a group of German bombers attacked that British naval anchorage last night, German flyers declared tonight.

Describing how the first German air attack of the war on British land objectives was carried out, three young red cheeked German flyers told the foreign press their raid "went off on schedule, much like a peacetime parade before a Nazi party congress."

Altho they said the three biggest British warships were believed in the Orkney Island anchorage when they raided it, they could not be sure what ships they hit with their bombs because it was virtually impossible to read the names from the air.

Airports Are Bombed.

The German command contented itself with a communique which said that three battleships and one cruiser were severely damaged and two other warships probably damaged.

The Orkney Island airports of Stromness, Kirkwall and Earth House, and a number of antiaircraft positions were bombed, the command said.

Maj. Fritz Doench, 36 year old air veteran and unit leader, wearing the Iron Cross, said the Germans had known for days that the British home fleet had been moved to Scapa Flow.

"We waited for days, loaded carefully, prepared for weather which would be most favorable," said Maj. Doench. "Just before taking off we talked over our plan once more. We flew a roundabout way. We came toward the Orkneys from the east and still could see well. [It was twilight.]

Says British Surprised.

"The surprise was so great, the British apparently were at their evening meal. Before us was such an endless number of ships we had trouble picking out which one we should make the target.

"We hit four of the biggest, each at least once directly with 1,000 pounders. Other bombs landed close beside the ships so that they lifted into the air and settled back into the water. For half an hour as we circled about from the north we saw huge columns of flame."

First Lieut. MacMagnussen, who has participated in 13 flights against Britain, said: "All was quiet on board as we flew to attack one of the warships most favorably situated.

"'The attack begins,' was the command.

"The outlook in the nose of the ship guided me.

Flames Spread Over Ship.

"Then I sensed the plane lightening. The bombs were dropping. It was a few seconds before I learned the results. Then our bomber called, 'We hit, she's burning!'

"The prow of the boat was enveloped in a cloud of smoke which spread so that the entire craft soon was buried in a black mass."

First Lieut. Honno Philipps, 24, an observer, said the assignment to his unit was to attack for the first time British airports protecting Scapa Flow.

"We were tense because it was the first raid on a British airport," he said. "We headed for Earth House first. Coming out of the east, our objective lay clear before us. We let our row of bombs go. We saw bomb after bomb strike clouds of dirt as they struck the runways, then the bright fire of burning hangars.

"During the attack British pursuits tried to reach us from below, but we turned off and disappeared into the night."

German Warplane Crashes on Danish Isle; Crew Flees

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 17 (AP).—A German military plane crashed early this morning on the northwestern part of the Island of Lolland, off the Danish coast. The finding of two parachutes near the plane, which was partly destroyed by fire, led to the belief the crew escaped after setting the machine ablaze.

GANDHI'S WORD STILL CONTROLS INDIA CONGRESS

RAMGARH, India, March 17 (AP).—Mohandas K. Gandhi's leadership held full sway over the all-India [Nationalist] Congress as it prepared to open a plenary session here this week amid new tension over the question of India's independence. One of the chief points of difference between the British government and the Indian Nationalists was whether Britain shall give India dominion status of British design after the European war ends, or whether India shall design her own state of independence and get it now.

On Ghandi's suggestion the congress working committee adopted a resolution expressing regret over the death of Sir Michael O'Dwyer, former lieutenant governor of the Punjab, shot by an Indian gunman last Wednesday in London. The resolution said "the committee does not attach any political significance to this unfortunate act."

'APERITIF TRIPS' TO MONACO END FRENCH THIRSTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 17.—The "aperitif trips" to the state of Monaco is a dodge that Riviera residents have thought up to get around the ban on hard liquors in France on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays. They flock to Monaco to lounge in cafés and sip the vermouths, cognacs, and other concoctions that are illegal outside the two tiny promontories that make up Monaco. One business man is capitalizing on thirst by organizing group expeditions.

MEXICO HAILS 2D ANNIVERSARY OF OIL SEIZURES

MEXICO CITY, March 17 (AP).—Approximately 100,000 workers and school children, waving flags, marched thru the streets today in celebration of the second anniversary of the government's expropriation of foreign oil properties.

The marchers were reviewed in front of the national palace by Lombardo Toledano, secretary general of the confederation of Mexican workers and Gen. Heriberto Jara, head of P. R. M., the government political party.

President Lazaro Cardenas, in a radio address in Chiapas state, said the expropriation had been of profound economic and social benefit to Mexico and stressed Mexico's determination to retain possession of the industry.

Settlements with the 17 foreign companies whose holdings were seized by President Cardenas' order on March 18, 1938, still are pending.

TWO PANAMANIAN POLICEMEN SHOT AT U.S. AIR FIELD

PANAMA CITY, March 17 (AP).—Two Panama plainclothes policemen were shot and seriously wounded by guards of the American Albrook airfield military reservation this morning when they sought to run toward the Canal Zone-Panama boundary after being apprehended inside the reservation.

Thefts of machineguns and other arms during the last election campaign have brought increased vigilance by the Canal Zone guard recently. The guardsmen who did the shooting are in custody of army authorities pending investigation.

HITLER AND DUCE MEET IN TOWN ON ITALIAN BORDER

Possibility of Peace Move Seen in Rome.

blessing to the move to be made by the very fact of his presence in Rome for a second visit.

While intimates of the career diplomat were confident he would make no commitments nor take any part in any peace program as his mission is to gather facts, it was acknowledged that if such a move were successful Welles would be taken in by the Nazi front as adroitly as Col. Edward M. House, President Wilson's personal peace ambassador in 1916, was by the allies.

The peace offensive, it was believed, would come in the drawing up of a pact guaranteeing the integrity of Rumania, which would block off that frontier as a rear approach to Germany. It was reported Rumania's integrity would be guaranteed by Germany, Italy, Russia, and perhaps Turkey which would wean Rumania away from Britain.

Duce Makes Up Mind.

Il Duce decided upon the interview with Hitler after his second conference in the Palazzo Venezia with Welles, whom President Roosevelt has sent to Europe to find a basis for a sound and lasting peace.

However, it could not be learned whether there is any connection between the two interviews. Welles maintained his usual cool silence and dined publicly in the dining room of his hotel.

Those who were certain that the conference presages peace argued that Welles was purposely showing himself publicly in an effort to keep the American hand from being exposed in the negotiations. Their contention is that Welles was told nothing in his visit to Berlin because the Nazis were fearful he would blab to the empire nations and that Germany's real peace terms were brought indirectly to his ears after his visits to Paris and London thru the visit which Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, paid to Mussolini last week.

Told German Position.

It was said Mussolini gave the true German position to Welles, received the reaction of the President's fact finder, and is carrying that reaction to Hitler. However, informed observers were more inclined to believe Welles knows nothing of what is to take place, but is being used for what his presence is worth to bolster German hopes for a status quo peace and Italy's desire for an end to the war.

On the peace offensive side it was said that reports of a guarantee of territorial integrity to Rumania will hem in the empires to the impregnable Maginot and Siegfried lines for a battle front and thus make them more amenable to peace.

It was also said that Germany was considerably perturbed and Russia more so over empire threats to operate in eastern Europe. It was recalled that the empire campaign on the Grecian front at Saloniki in the last war contributed to the German collapse on the western front.

Would Close One Road.

If the Rumanian road is closed, France and Britain will have no choice but to play a waiting game in the hope of effecting interior collapse of their foe.

The French and British embassies here were agog over Mussolini's departure. The French were even more concerned over the rumors of a French cabinet upheaval which would bring former Prime Minister Pierre Laval, who is friendly to Mussolini, into the cabinet as foreign minister and thus effect a shakeup of the staff here.

Welles' only engagement today was a luncheon with American Ambassador William Phillips. Tomorrow he will call on Pope Pius XII. at the Vatican. He will be presented by

Adolf Hitler (above) and Benito Mussolini (below), who met at Italian frontier town early today for mysterious parley.

Myron C. Taylor, lawyer and capitalist, who is President Roosevelt's personal peace ambassador to the holy city.

During the visit Welles probably will receive a summary of the pope's peace aims and an advance copy of the pope's Easter peace plea.

Welles will leave for Genoa, where he will board the Conti di Savoia for America on Wednesday noon. The Italian liner on this trip will depart from Genoa rather than Naples. This fact aroused considerable speculation here that the shift in the schedule of the liner was made to keep the American envoy in Italy during the Mussolini-Hitler peace negotiations. It also will allow time for another Mussolini-Welles conference.

FRENCH CABINET SHAKEUP WITHIN WEEK FORECAST

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 17.—French politicians tonight expected the coming week to see a shakeup in the cabinet of Premier Edouard Daladier in response to public demands that the government get on with the war immediately and vigorously if there is to be any war at all.

High French sources also said that if Adolf Hitler's meeting with Premier Benito Mussolini means an Easter peace offensive, it is doomed in advance. Government sources insisted Britain and France could not accept an immediate compromise peace.

The demand for a cabinet shakeup, followed last week's secret session in the senate in which more than 60 senators abstained from participating in a vote of confidence. It also followed a widespread cry in the French press for vigorous prosecution of the war, with Great Britain and France taking the initiative.

Opinion in political circles tonight seemed divided as to what may happen this week. Some said there may be a collective resignation of the Daladier cabinet and formation of a national union war cabinet. Others declared that Daladier may redistribute some cabinet posts and perhaps relinquish the portfolios of foreign affairs and war, which he holds in addition to the premiership.

Inner Cabinet May Be Formed.

In the latter case, Daladier would form a small inner group of six or eight ministers. This inner, or war, cabinet, which would resemble the British war cabinet, would be less hampered in taking energetic action to prosecute the war, as demanded last week by the senate.

While every one is talking about ministerial changes, no candidates have been definitely advanced for Daladier's posts as head of the war ministry and foreign affairs ministry should he give up these. It is pointed out, however, that at the foreign ministry, especially, Daladier should be relieved from his heavy duties since the diplomatic aspect of the war, rather than military, makes that post all-important.

Louis Marin Mentioned.

The name of Louis Marin of the Republican Federation group in the chamber of deputies has been mentioned, but whether for the war ministry or for foreign affairs it was not clear.

Some envisaged participation of Pierre Laval, former premier, in a new cabinet.

On the other hand, well informed newspapers like Le Matin today thought that it was possible that if Daladier plays his cards cleverly there may not be much of a cabinet reshuffle at all. At any rate, it appears matters will come to a head on Tuesday, when the chamber will hold a secret session to debate the debacle of Finland and, in general, the way in which the Daladier government has been conducting the war in the west.

The idea was broached tonight, but it did not seem probable, that Daladier might confront the chamber on Tuesday with an already modified cabinet.

It seemed more probable that Daladier will wait until he senses the temper of his chamber critics before he decides on the extent of cabinet changes. Eleven deputies have demanded the right to interpolate and put the government on the carpet.

Some politicians said that unless Daladier takes drastic action in making cabinet changes he will run into rough weather in the senate on Thursday, when the military credits bill must be voted.

HITLER'S MEETING WITH MUSSOLINI ALARMS BRITISH

Hint of Turko-Russian Talk Adds to Worry.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 17.—England last week passed thru one of the worst periods of the war and developments today promised events for the next few days of even more far reaching importance.

On top of political activities, peace on the Finnish front, and reconciliation of King Carol and the Iron Guardists, which is regarded as a triumph for the Nazis in Rumania, further disquieting news comes today from Istanbul, Turkey. It is reported that Turko-Russian talks are contemplated. Contributing again to the general uneasiness in British-French circles is the announcement that Adolf Hitler and Premier Benito Mussolini will meet for two days of talks.

Speculate on Future.

Just what these developments signify is a subject for much conjecture among the British. They may mean only that Hitler is organizing in more definite form a neutral bloc in the Mediterranean and Balkans calculated to thwart possible British-French diplomatic or military penetration in those areas. Not excluded from the conjectures is the possibility of an organized peace move in which all neutrals would be asked to join.

Another view is that the development may mean a great German offensive. Intensification of military operations is considered not unlikely.

Air Raid Stirs Uneasiness.

Following two weeks of relative calm on sea, the German air raid last night on Scapa Flow created some consternation. Disquietude is also aroused by the fact that a civilian was killed on British soil by an airplane bomb. This was the first civilian thus killed and the incident can be expected to cause demands for more intensive action on the part of the British.

Diplomatic correspondents of London newspapers seem to agree that American Undersecretary Sumner Welles has Hitler's peace terms in his pocket. They assume that these terms demand that Germany retain everything she now has, and contain only unimportant concessions regarding the status of the Polish and Czech states, terms that, if accepted, would mean a complete Nazi triumph.

Government Stands Pat.

There is no indication that the government is weakening on its original war aims. Criticism directed against the government seems mostly confined to charges that it has not gone far enough to put the nation on a total war footing, or as in Finland, has failed to take the political initiative away from Hitler.

Economists and others have raised a question as to Britain's preparedness for peace. Trade unions have pointed out the possibilities of a great increase in unemployment when the war ends, owing not only to demobilization of the armed forces but to dislocation of employment created by the closing down of war industries. The unions are demanding special safeguarding of the unemployment insurance fund to meet this situation when it arises.

25 DIE AS AVALANCHE HITS JUGO-SLAV TRAIN; COACH GOES IN RIVER

Arrow locates scene of wreck.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, March 17. (AP).—Twenty-five persons were killed and 70 others injured today when a passenger train crowded with peasants and army reservists was wrecked by an avalanche in a narrow canyon near Ozalj.

One of the seven coaches was hurled into the Kulpa river and all its occupants were believed drowned. The remaining coaches, all badly damaged, clung precariously to the river bank.

Government authorities, who said the avalanche was caused by recent heavy rains, rushed medical aid to the scene.

OUR LOSS A LOSS TO CHRISTIANITY, FINLAND MOURNS

Churches Vacant in Towns Ceded to Russia.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 17.—Palm Sunday sermons in those churches in Finland still holding regular services dwelt on the theme that the Finnish territory ceded to Russia also had been lost to Christianity.

The oldest Christian community now in bolshevik hands is the island archipelago of Valamo, founded in 992. Except for a brief period when the Greek Orthodox monastery was destroyed in the war between Sweden and Russia, religious services have been held there regularly even during the early days of the bolshevik revolution in Russia.

Viipuri, founded in 1403, and once a Hansa league town, also always has been a Christian community, like Sortavala founded in 1632, with 4,700 inhabitants; and Kakisalmi, founded in 1650, with 5,100 inhabitants. These towns have Orthodox churches, but Hango, also lost to the Russians, has Lutheran churches.

No Bells on Easter.

Both Lutheran pastors and Orthodox priests reminded their congregations that on Easter Sunday, the most joyful festival in the Christian religion, no church bells will resound the tidings of Christ's rebirth in the lost Finnish territory. This Passion Week, they said, will be a week of silent suffering and also a week of terrible and intensive work by the army and others now concentrating their efforts on saving everything they can from the territory.

There are many hundreds of churches in this territory, mostly simple wooden structures such as seen in the American countryside. Viipuri churches were destroyed by bombs and Sortavala, Kakisalmi, and Hango each lost one of theirs, but many not damaged now are abandoned.

Hango, because of its proximity to soviet air bases in Estonia, was one of the most heavily bombed Finnish towns and during the 105 days of the war soviet planes bombed the town on 75 days. Now its 10,000 inhabitants have only 10 days to remove their belongings.

Urge Mannerheim as Chief.

Tremendous problems are confronting the government. Calling Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustav Mannerheim's order of the day the greatest document produced by the war, Uusi Suomi, Coalition party newspaper, suggests that the commander in chief's authority be extended and continued during the difficult reconstruction period, when parties might handicap the safety of the country.

Field Marshal Mannerheim, says the paper, is the only person in Finland who has the right to say: "I told you so."

Finland does not need a dictator, it adds, "but we do need a commander in chief who will have the right to suppress party quarrels and preserve the spirit of unity and sacrifice which will guarantee greater success in reconstruction of our now smaller country."

The Uusi Suomi said in a special dispatch from Moscow that the Russian government would immediately begin construction of strong fortifications along the new frontier with Finland. The fortifications are to be known as the Voroshilov line, after War Commissar Klementi Voroshilov, the dispatch said.

Train Service Restored.

MOSCOW, March 17 (AP).—The government newspaper Izvestia, describing the surrender of Viborg [Viipuri] to the Red army under terms of the Finnish-Russian peace treaty, said today that train service from Leningrad has been restored and work of rebuilding the shelled city has begun.

Russian engineers, sanitary experts, and builders are clearing away débris, and telephone and electric light systems will be functioning by Tuesday, the newspaper said.

ASK U. S. AID IN HUNT FOR EVANSTON MAN MISSING IN FINLAND

W. B. T. Mock.

An appeal has been made to the state department in Washington to help find William B. T. Mock of 1616 Forest place, Evanston, who served in a volunteer ambulance unit on the Finnish front and is now missing.

The appeal was made by his grandfather, William Byford Taylor, retired president of the Chicago Pharmaceutical company, from Coral Gables, Fla. Mock's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Harry E. Mock, and his sister, Marjorie, are with Mr. Taylor. It was reported that Mr. Taylor also appealed directly to the White House.

Young Mock arrived in Finland on Jan. 10 with several other Americans. His last letter home was dated Feb. 10.

17 Polish Professors Die; German Camp Is Blamed

PARIS, March 17.—It was reported here today that 17 professors of Cracow university have died in the last three months, victims of the German concentration camp at Sachsenhausen, near Berlin. Six of the Polish educators, it was stated, succumbed in Cracow in the last four weeks after their release to return home, and one died as a direct fault of camp hardship.

WESTERN FRONT SEES 2D DAY OF SEVERE FIGHTING

Local Detachments Battle Thru Night.

PARIS, March 17 (AP). — Severe, localized fighting between French and German units on the western front continued today west of the Vosges mountains.

The fighting started yesterday when Nazi scouting parties attacked outposts. Thruout the night and today fighting took place as detachments collided along that sector.

Repulse of "a rather large number of German patrols that attacked French outposts west of the Vosges last night was reported by the French.

Reconnaissance planes were active on both sides. Two German planes were reported sighted over northern and western France.

The British-French communique this morning said: "Nothing to report." Tonight's communique said: "Marked activity of reconnaissance parties west of the Vosges [mountains]."

French Shell German Signs.

BASEL, Switzerland, March 17 (AP).—French guns in the Maginot line along the Rhine today had their first workout in many months, destroying German propaganda signs across the river north of Basel.

Early this morning Germans posted huge propaganda signs in French, plainly visible from the opposite shore. "Do not sacrifice yourselves for the English," the signs stated.

The French guns opened a sporadic fire at dawn and by noon not a sign remained standing on the German side of the river. There was no answering fire from the Germans.

Basel authorities today warned the public that instructions on what to do in event of removal of civilians from the city would be issued tomorrow as a routine measure. They emphasized there was no cause for alarm.

British Army Leaves Delayed.

LONDON, March 17 (AP).—The war office announced today that "owing to an unforeseen delay, men coming home on leave from the B. E. F. [British expeditionary force] have been temporarily retarded." The announcement did not explain the nature of the delay.

Official figures on royal air force losses were swelled by the air ministry's 22d casualty list, announcing that 33 men had been killed, three had died from wounds, and eight had died in active service.

RUSSIA MINES PORT OF BATUM ON BLACK SEA

ANKARA, Turkey, March 17.—A further indication of the defensive measures being taken in Russia's Black sea port of Batum was reported today by a diplomat. He said he has received information the harbor was mined recently. This has been confirmed by a responsible Turk, who claims a floating soviet mine was discovered last week on the northeast Turkish coast.

Defensive measures in this country also are being speeded up, and Admiral Lucien Mourer of France, now in Ankara, is assisting in the preparations. Practice blackouts were staged the last few nights in various towns, including Knoya and Eskisehir.

Considerable interest here surrounds the rumors Germany will seek to detach Turkey from Britain and France. While this is believed impossible under the present government, the reich government's activity is being watched by British and French interests here.

SWEDEN HEARS REDS INTEND TO DEMAND FREE TRADE PORTS

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 17 (AP).—The Swedish newspaper Aftonbladet said in a Moscow dispatch tonight that Russia was reported to be intending to demand free trade ports in Sweden and Norway after negotiating a trade treaty with Finland. The soviet also planned to negotiate for trade treaties with Sweden and Norway, the dispatch said. Harbors were not mentioned by name but Aftonbladet declared Russia felt the need of a Norwegian harbor on the Atlantic in case a sea war broke out in the Baltic.

Stamp Collecting by Jews Banned by Nazi Postoffice

BERLIN, March 17 (AP).—Stamp collecting is taboo for Jews, so far as the German postoffice is concerned. Stamp fanciers who have regularly received new German issues found specimens of the new Leipzig fair stamps accompanied by a notice stating that hereafter no Jew will be entitled to this service for collectors.

FILIPINOS SLAY U. S. SAILOR; TOSS BODY INTO SEA

MANILA, P. I., March 17 (AP).—The slaying of a United States sailor by four Filipinos was disclosed today by authorities. They said two prisoners confessed they killed and robbed John Randolph Pirschar and threw his body into the sea with a rock tied to the feet.

Pirschar, a member of the crew of the U. S. S. Marblehead, disappeared on Feb. 27 while his ship was in Subig bay, on the western shore of the island of Luzon, not far from Manila. He came from Birmingham, Ala., and enlisted at San Diego, Cal., in 1937.

Murder charges were filed against the Rufino Lonsanida, Leoncio Buque, Eusebio Ramos, and Eficio Asuelo.

NO SACRIFICE TOO GREAT, PREMIER TELLS RUMANIA

Army Must Be Kept at War Strength, He Warns.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 17 (AP).—Premier George Tatarescû told Rumania today "no sacrifice is too great" to keep the Rumanian army at war strength and to meet the 30,000,000,000 lei [$165,000,000] annual budget.

Premier Tatarescu.

In a radio address following the release of 800 former pro-Nazi Iron Guardists from concentration camps, the premier said:

"Weakness invites threats and strength keeps them at a distance. For defense of our frontiers, no effort is superfluous, no sacrifice too great."

Urges Harder Work.

Tatarescu appealed to each farmer to do two men's work to make up for reservists' absence in the army and called on industrial laborers, especially those in the mines and oil fields, to double their efforts to assûre adequate reserves for the nation in event of emergency.

"I do not know what tomorrow will bring," he said, "but I believe we can feel less disturbed than we were yesterday. I am convinced the greater part of our difficulties is now behind us."

Freed Foes for Unity.

The premier said that such confidence was largely due to the people's solidarity and the army's strength which is 1,600,000 men. He added: "We wish peace, but a peace which will respect our rights—rights backed by law and justice."

Tatarescu avoided mention of the Iron Guardists, whom he ordered freed in the belief it would contribute to national unity. The government sent no official representative to the unveiling of a plaque over the grave of Armand Calinescu, premier who was assassinated by Iron Guardists on Sept. 21, 1939.

STUDENT FLYER DIES WHEN PLANE UPSETS IN WATER

Newark, N. J., March 17 (AP).—Floyd Shinn, 25 years old, of North Arlington, drowned today when a small airplane in which he was taking flying lessons overturned in Newark bay.

Kenneth Raymond, 31, of Maplewood, Shinn's pilot-instructor, was taken to St. James hospital suffering from submersion. Raymond was rescued by Harold Shinn, 20, brother of the drowned man. Shinn saw a cross gust of wind flip over the Piper cub two place plane a quarter mile offshore and went to the scene in a rowboat which he propelled with one oar. Rescue squads and firemen grappled for Floyd Shinn's body.

Harold told police he and his brother had come to the seaplane base today to take a lesson from Raymond in the plane owned by an older brother, Edwin Shinn Jr. Raymond had taxied approximately a quarter mile out on the bay, preparatory to taking off when the plane overturned.

ITALIAN PLANE HITS VOLCANO IN FOG; 14 KILLED

ROME, March 17 (AP).—Fourteen persons aboard an Italian air liner were killed when the plane crashed on the slopes of Stromboli volcano in the Lipari Islands while en route from Catania to Rome.

Officials announced today that the plane hit the side of the volcano yesterday while flying blind in fog.

The dead included 10 passengers, several of them prominent Milan industrialists, and the crew of four.

THE WINNER, RED JOSEF.

Russia's attack on Finland was one in a series of wars which realistically may be regarded as concluding their first stage at Munich in September, 1938, when Hitler won the Sudetenland without firing a shot. Since then Bohemia, Moravia, and Slovakia have been overrun by the Germans without fighting. Poland has been conquered and laid prostrate by the Nazis and the communists jointly, the Baltic states have had to surrender military bases and posts to Stalin, and now Finland, to preserve its independence in a restricted area, has been compelled to make a hard peace, to take thousands of its families out of the lost regions and resettle them elsewhere.

The winner in these wars and aggressions at the present moment is Red Josef of Moscow. The counterclaim of Herr Hitler to the distinction and the larger share of the booty is offset by the fact that the Nazis still have a great and uncertain, altho inactive, war on their hands. Stalin has his spoils, he has expanded the boundaries of the communist soviets, and he has peace. The British and the French threatened to take him on along with Hitler in the great war, but they didn't get around to doing it. Mr. Roosevelt denounced him but without cutting off his American supplies.

When Stalin balances his account with the White House he will find that he can check unfamiliar epithets which didn't hurt him against the American copper, gasoline, and other military material which came to him in increasing volume each month of the war and helped him to seize Finnish territory. All Mr. Roosevelt did for Finland was to rebuke the young delegates to the American Youth congress for not condemning the invasion by the Reds. The supplies went to Russia just the same and Stalin has no reason to deplore the calculated cooling off in the White House sentiments for him. If they are not now pretentiously cordial they have done him no harm that requires first aid.

Stalin is the winner at this stage of the wars of aggression and the only losers are Poland, Finland, and the little countries which did not threaten any one, which have been overrun or which live in fear that their turn is next. The Reds have new territory, new subject peoples, and in a month or so, when spring is at full, they may be free to turn their attention to the Balkans and find new opportunities for more terrorism.

Aside from the losses at sea, the major belligerents are still painlessly in conflict, deadlocked along their fortified lines and waiting the major strokes, if they are to come. The countries which began this greatest phase of war have suffered relatively little, altho their economies are disordered and their costs are piling up with no appreciable military effect.

Every little country still remaining intact dreads the possibilities of real action if the combatants on the western front at last try to get at each other's throats. So far these powers have fought the war everywhere except in their own territory and they are now seeking battlefields away from their own boundaries. The Scandinavian peoples were fortunate enough to avoid offering their towns and farms for the major battles, but the rest of Europe waits in dread.

So far it has been a harvest for Stalin.

DUAL CITIZENSHIP.

George Frederic Kiehl, a native of France who is a naturalized American citizen living in Glen Ellyn, has received a notice to report for duty with the French army. He says he will ignore it, and Rene Weiller, French consul general in Chicago, says no attempt will be made to force him or others similarly situated to comply.

M. Weiller is no doubt actuated as much by discretion as by magnanimity, since the French government obviously has no means of exerting force against any resident of the United States. If, however, Mr. Kiehl should return to France for any reason, the French might not only put him in the army but try him for technical desertion as well, and his American passport might give him little, if any, protection.

The conflicting claims of dual citizenship have been a serious problem of our state department for many decades. In the absence of naturalization treaties our diplomats have in many instances been unable to protect persons, recognized by the laws of the United States as citizens by either birth or naturalization, when those persons fell into the hands of authorities in the land of their or their fathers' birth.

The United States and Great Britain follow the principle of citizenship by place of birth. Any one born under the flag is regarded as a citizen. Continental European powers, however, have clung to the principle of citizenship by inheritance.

The French hold that a Frenchman cannot renounce his French citizenship without the consent of his government, which is rarely given, and they regard the son of a Frenchman born in the United States as a French citizen. There is even a case on record in which they seized and subjected to military service the American born son of an American citizen by birth, whose grandfather had been a French emigrant to this country.

Mussolini, in his early and most ebullient days, declared that an Italian was an Italian even to the seventh generation, wherever he might be born, and levied taxes against American citizens of Italian descent, collecting the money from relatives in Italy when the Americans failed to pay. The German government, before the world war, passed a statute giving permission to Germans who became naturalized citizens of other nations to retain their German citizenship as well.

The United States recognizes citizenship by inheritance only to the extent that children of American citizens born abroad are regarded as American citizens during their minority. When they reach 21 they must make an affirmative declaration of citizenship and normally must return to this country if they wish to retain American citizenship.

This policy has had one strange effect. In some cases a naturalized citizen receives greater protection from our government, when he becomes involved in difficulties with foreign authorities, than a citizen by birth. If the latter's father was of foreign birth, even tho naturalized in the United States, our consuls frequently have more difficulty in obtaining his release from conscription in a European army than if he were a naturalized citizen.

Students of the problem have frequently pointed out that the governing factor in cases of dual citizenship claims should be the wish of the individual concerned. If he is impressed for military service by a country to which he feels no allegiance, he will naturally make a poor soldier. But the generals of continental Europe, with their appetite for cannon fodder, have paid scant heed to such logic.

SENATOR MINTON RENDERS A PUBLIC SERVICE.

Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana, one of the leaders in the fight against the Hatch clean politics bill, boasted in the senate the other day that he is a Roosevelt rubber stamp and confessed that the money that put him in office came from the shakedown of state employés.

Senator Minton renders a distinct service whenever he breaks into the news. His appearance cannot fail to remind the voters that the Indiana Democratic machine owning him is one of the worst political outfits in the country.

The McNutt gang, of which he is a member, may not have inaugurated the idea of extorting 2 per cent of the salaries of all state employés, but it was the first group with the effrontery to pass a law presuming to legalize the shakedowns. The gang's administration of the spoils it collected was so devious that even now federal agents are active in the state seeking to find how much of the money stayed in the pockets of those who handled it.

Naturally a machine whose handling of slush funds has become a national scandal would also represent in the highest degree the alliance of crime and politics. Dillinger had enough political pull to obtain his release despite a record of bad behavior in prison. The prison break he arranged for his confederates was made easy by the fact that the then Gov. McNutt had replaced the then experienced employés of the Michigan City penitentiary with political hacks.

Once caught, Dillinger was too hot to be kept in confinement. He knew too much. When he was at liberty again it became a vital matter that he should never have a chance in court to tell what he knew. A wooden gun enabled him to walk out of the Crown Point jail and when he was killed in Chicago police from an Indiana town participated. The recent arrest of the chief surgeon at the prison where Dillinger was confined, on charges of supplying a dope ring with its merchandise, is evidence that the prison system that the McNutt-Minton gang debauched is still debauched.

The more often this record is brought before the voters the better, and Senator Minton cannot open his mouth without reminding the nation of his background.

NOTE ON THE PREVALENCE OF DIARIES.

From time to time historians are heard complaining that the habit of keeping diaries is no longer a common one. How, they ask, are the historians of the future to know what we thought in the inmost recesses of our hearts if there are no diaries to reveal our secrets.

Perhaps the situation is not quite so desperate as they have imagined. The other day a contributor to the Voice of the People asked if any one recalled the date of the big snowstorm of a year ago. Several dozen replies were received. One correspondent remembered the date because a relative had died just as the storm began. Another's marriage had almost to be postponed because of the difficulties of assembling the wedding party. The rest quoted from their diaries.

That indicates that a good many people still keep them. Perhaps the entries speak only of the weather, but that seems hardly likely. Most of the jottings are probably of small account, but it is just possible that somewhere in Chicago is a person scarcely known outside of the circle of his own acquaintance who some day may be famous for his shrewd day-by-day observations and analyses. Persons seeking immortal fame who find themselves unable at the moment to turn out a deathless bit of verse might profitably seek out the Unknown Diarist and contribute occasional bits of wit and wisdom for the record.

THE DEAD LEVY TAXES.

[Kansas City Times.]

Like the locusts of Moses, which "covered the face of the whole earth . . . and did eat every herb of the land, and all the fruit of the trees," the taxing units increase on every hand. In addition to the government's spending-borrowing-taxing policy, and the vast number of special taxes assessed by states, cities and counties, there are new forms of taxing units springing up all the time.

One of the most curious of these was recently called attention to by Albert B. Martin, general counsel of the League of Kansas Municipalities. It seems that in Kansas even the dead are now beginning to levy taxes.

Cemetery associations in the state, early in the 1920s, began to find that they were having financial difficulties. In many of the older cemeteries all the burial lots were sold, and with no income the problem of caring for the cemeteries was acute. So somebody prevailed on the legislature of 1925 to authorize the creation of cemetary districts with the authority to levy taxes.

Since then every session of the legislature has had before it a number of applications for the creation of such districts. In the last 15 years nearly 300 such districts have been created and in 1939 taxes were levied by 250 of them.

All of which is just another indication of the trend of the times. As Mr. Martin says, "It won't be long now until a prospective wife will have to pass a test in higher household accountancy and the prospective husband will have to pass a ways and means test before a marriage license will be issued to them."

ON TRAIL OF FAMOUS TWINS.

After browsing in the enchanting fields of Twinland [March 16], searching for famous twins, single or double—famous for contributions to history or culture—we have discovered that they have a high collector's value. They are, in fact, almost as scarce as hen's teeth. Certain learned men—Sir James Y. Simpson, British physician, and a Dr. Kaiser of Dresden—have gone out on limbs with statements that they never heard of a famous twin. In 1912 the sages of the Athenæum club of London tided over a dull winter by dredging up evidence to defy these scoffers, and many letters to the editors of "Notes and Queries" resulted.

Perhaps the most powerful twin who has a toehold in history flourished in the middle ages as chief justiciar of England. This title meant that during the long absences of Henry II. on the continent he was practically the boss of England. However, he had an associate justiciar who shared the duties of office, which consisted chiefly in beheadings, hangings, and drawing-and-quarterings.

This Big Shot was Robert de Beaumont, second earl of Leicester [1104-'68], and he bore the sobriquet of Le Bossu [The Hunchback]. His twin brother was Waleran, count of Meulan, who shattered a few lances in a civil war against the interests of Le Bossu's liege lord. A first-rate twin story might have resulted if the count of Meulan had been brought before the chief justiciar on a charge of high treason, but apparently Le Bossu overlooked this opportunity of breaking into history in an outstanding way. This Lord Leicester figures as a minor character in Tennyson's drama, "Becket."

If on a bar-stool seated coy
Thou spottest one afar, she
Will make her presence known to thee
As what we call a barshee.

And night clubs, trying to hammer a
Sneaked likeness into private films
With (sic) a candid camera.

The demimonde, which sounds like vice,
No shame should make thee feel;
'T is but a jabberwocky word
Describing the New Deal.

With power cocktails nowadays
We conjure up the genie
Which lurks within th' deceptive depths

How to Worry a Bridgetender—II.

On a May morning 20 years ago the sloop Alice approached the 92d street bridge over the Calumet. "We may have a little trouble getting the bridge," I warned Les. "Blow me down to Rio," warbled Les. It was his maiden voyage and he was feeling very salty.

Sure enough the bridgetender ignored our pleas. "You hold her off and I'll put in the fix," said I, going up the ladder. Three dollars did it. The bridge rose and groaned. But no? It was Les groaning. Our rigging had fouled the bridge and the Alice hung head up and stern down, while Les hung stern up and head down.

"Take your boat off my bridge," shouted the bridgetender. "Take your bridge off my boat," I shouted back. Ten terrific traffic stalling minutes and we were clear.

"Bad cess to ye and may ye both drowndead," was the bridgetender's parting shot. "Blow me down to Rio," sang Les, for he was very salty again. Bluegill.

IT MUST BE TRUE LOVE.

We have danced
At each one of the night clubs!
We have seen
All the very best shows!
We have never yet failed
To appear at
The places
Where every one goes!
You have showered me,
Darling,
With orchids;
You have bought me
The choicest of wine.
But I have more fun at the movies,
Holding your hand
In mine!

Two Men with Hoes.

The late Edwin Markham's famous poem, "The Man with the Hoe," blamed the "masters, lords, and rulers in all lands" because farming is hard work. John Vance Cheney, a former librarian of the Newberry in Chicago, wrote a reply to it which was preceded by this text from Montaigne:

"Let us a little permit Nature to take her own way; she better understands her own affairs than we."

Speaking of Short Railroads—

For the shortest railroad with the longest name, I give you the Louisville, New Albany and Corydon Railroad company. Only six miles in length, but as broad as the broadest. Endh.

We have been pronouncing Wacker drive improperly! The Wacker family uses the "a" to correspond with the one in "water." Quizzicuss.

"East is east and west is west, and never the twain shall meet." O, yeah? In Manchuria the natives sleep on top of stoves, and in the American wild west the oldtimers sing "Home on the Range." CHARLES COLLINS.

BUILDING HEALTH FOR LIFE.

YOUTH is the time to build good health. As a matter of fact, the foundation should be laid before the infant is born—and the well being of the mother is highly essential. She requires not only good food with plenty of minerals and vitamins but adequate exercise and recreation.

Sturdy boys and girls make stalwart men and women. While there are a few exceptions, the rule holds 99 times out of 100, and most of us will agree that the development of a sound body—including the mind and the nervous system—comes ahead of a brilliant career in school. We owe our progeny the chance to grow up energetic and wide awake—hence able to take life in full and joyous stride. Least of all do we wish our young people to become rebellious against society because of lost opportunities—to manifest a warped mental outlook.

It has been well said that if the child is observed critically for the first 10 or 12 years of his life that the start thus attained will be sufficient to carry him thru to a ripe old age. But some parents—fearful, perhaps, of babying their offspring—make light of symptoms that should be investigated. So-called growing pains may not be significant, but again they may point directly to a rheumatic infection—originating in badly diseased tonsils. No one believes in coddling—in making "little neurotics" who will become "big neurotics" later. But we should be alert to beginning signs of trouble, those "bends of the twig" that may result in a changed disposition or an imperfect physique.

Of course, no one would deliberately oblige a tot to mingle with those ill with scarlet fever. Nevertheless, a form of indifference toward contagious disease may be tantamount to the same thing. Rushing youngsters who have been sick back to school—just because they make nuisances of themselves around the home—is fraught with real danger.

As a rule, children possess great resistance, but, on the other hand, many seem to catch every malady that is going around. We should take advantage, therefore, of every means of rendering them immune. There are protective procedures now available against whooping cough, diphtheria, and scarlet fever. We can keep them in bed should a respiratory infection appear and thus safeguard them against possible complications.

Another fact that is not understood has to do with what we call minor ailments. While we may look upon diphtheria or scarlet fever as major episodes, nevertheless colds, sore throats, enlarged glands, and anemia are not given any consideration. These so-called incidental disorders may come at a period when the victim is less able to withstand them. Then it is that bad after effects may play havoc.

Parenthood is a great opportunity, likewise a real responsibility. Sacrifices, if necessary, are in order. As a rule, these are forthcoming—all for the benefit of those who are unable to do for themselves. As much attention, perhaps, will need to be directed toward the emotional life as is accorded the physical welfare. We see all too many grown men and women who typify faulty rearing in their formative years. Petulant, opinionated, and selfish, they cut but poor figures in the world of today. Fundamentally they are not to blame, as their training has been poor. When they recognize their own shortcomings it may be too late to make an about face or revamp ingrained traits. Perhaps the rising waves of psychic disturbances may be laid to indifference or misunderstanding on the part of their fathers and mothers.

About the most beautiful sight in the world is a boy or girl just budding into manhood or womanhood—rosy-cheeked, clear-eyed, with an erect posture symbolic of hope, ambition, and honesty. Every lad and lass should fit into this picture.

WATERING EYES.

J. M. writes: Does a person whose eyes water need glasses? I have this trouble all the time altho I can see well.

REPLY.

Excessive tearing may be due to sensitivity to cold or to some obstruction within the tear ducts. Irritation of the lids may be to blame. If in doubt, have your vision checked.

TONGUE ERUPTIONS.

A. S. writes: What causes pimples on the tongue?

REPLY.

Enlarged taste buds may look like pimples. Irritation from jagged teeth, canker sores, etc., may be responsible. The condition of the blood and the nutrition should be checked thoroly.

SELF-TREATMENT.

M. writes: Is it possible for a person to treat himself with sulfanilamide?

REPLY.

Possible, but very foolish. The drug may destroy blood elements and the condition of the circulation must be checked repeatedly. In addition, there are other side effects that must be guarded against.

MIRACLES.

A. S. writes: Is it possible for a woman of 70 to have a baby? She is gaining weight and fears she is pregnant.

REPLY.

Possibly in Old Testament times, but not in these days. The chances are that some tumor growth is responsible for the symptom.

BLUEBEARD'S LATEST PROPOSAL

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

THE MARCH OF DIMES.

Holliston, Mass., March 10.—An unpleasant experience as a selectman of this little town of Holliston aroused my curiosity as to the means and methods of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc. I found that my unaided voice was hardly heard. Hence I am trying to multiply the sound before the next birthday celebration by speaking thru your columns.

The first annual report of the foundation covers the period from Jan. 3, 1938, to Sept. 30, 1939. It fails to answer many questions, such as "How much was collected before 1938 and how was the money used?" But it tells a great deal more than the sponsors for the 1940 drive saw fit to reveal in their appeals for dimes and dollars. The total "net" receipts during those 21 months were $2,391,158, of which $727,173 was left in localities for treatment of individual cases. The foundation received for its broad attack on the disease itself $1,613,983.

The foundation was able to push out in its broad attack only $284,270, less than one-fifth of the receipts for that purpose. Added to this are operating costs of $61,267, and other small accounting items.

The really startling figure is the $1,270,917 lying idle in the banks when the books closed Sept. 30, 1939.

The general public should have been given those figures and the figures before 1938 as well.

The public should be told the motives back of the gift of $161,350 to Tuskegee [admittedly a noble institution], in view of the fact that "the disease is relatively infrequent in the colored race." [Vol. A40 Infantile Paralysis, p. 149, published by the foundation itself.] Why $161,000 here, when only $21,050 is the largest gift to any other institution? Do white doctors, discovering a boon to mankind, lock it in their closet if the fellow doctor or the needy patient is a Negro?

The public should question disbursements such as $7,650 to the state board of health of South Carolina "to assist the state" and enable it to extract another $7,650 from the federal taxpayers under the social security law which matches state appropriations with federal appropriations.

The public should know how much was collected in the 1940 celebration; how much will be added to the funds in the bank; how much will be put to use and how.

Each locality should know how much it received in 1939 to aid individual cases; how many cases were aided and at what cost; what was the overhead; how much is added from the 1940 gifts; where and by whom are these local funds administered. Inability to learn that prevented the only needy case in our town from getting aid.

Answers to such questions as these will be essential to the decision as to whether 1941 gifts should go to community chests and other local charities, whose pressing but prosaic needs are increasingly obscured by the drama of the President's appeal, or should be sunk in this huge pool already stagnating for want of proper outlets. EDWARD G. FISCHER,
Chairman, Board of Selectmen, Town of Holliston.

A LITTERED CITY.

Chicago, March 15.—I was born in Chicago and am proud of its achievements. But can you suggest any way to educate its people not to litter up its streets? One citizen takes a piece of gum and throws the paper on the walk or parkway. The next adds a cigaret package cover, the next perhaps a torn letter, an orange wrapper or piece of newspaper. Result: Good neighborhoods look like slums. Other cities, even large ones, have coped with this problem and conquered it. Why not Chicago? M. W. NORTH.

FOR WEARERS OF STRIPED TIES.

River Grove, Ill., March 14.—It is pleasant to note that men who persist in wearing striped neckwear are finally beginning to realize the fact that the stripes in their ties carry a significance.

In medieval days families were careful of the direction in which the diagonal bar or stripe crossed the family shield or escutcheon. A stripe placed diagonally across the shield from its dexter [right] side to its sinister [left] side in a downward direction was a sign of honor, strength, and everything good; whereas a stripe placed diagonally across the shield from its sinister [left] side to its dexter [right] side in a downward direction was a sign of dishonor, weakness, illegitimacy, etc.

Gentlemen, gentlemen, look at your ties! Wear only those striped ties which reveal your true character. Let the cry be, "By their stripes ye shall know them." KAJOV.

TWO PER CENT MINTON.

Chicago, March 14.—In his objection to the extension of the Hatch act [and the proportionate reduction in political racketeering] Senator Sherman Minton, a self-confessed tool for our radical administration, submits this enticing argument: That he is a product of the Indiana 2%-or-Else club and but for such an organization there wouldn't have been any Senator Minton! Well, that ought to settle the question for his fellow legislators. If 2 per cent rackets hatch out Mintons let's throw away the incubator. BILL MAYOR.

FOR A THIRD TERM.

Robinson, Ill., March 14.—Why all this wondering about a third term for Roosevelt? He should be drafted and forced to run for a third term. Then he should be elected unanimously by Democrats and Republicans.

He should not be allowed to sneak out now, since he has our country as far into debt as it is allowed to go, and cause some other man to be blamed because he cannot straighten out the mess that he has gotten our country into.

Let's have him "Plan it that way," and work overtime for our country instead of running away on another fishing trip each time he forces us a little further into the red. L. K.

THE LAST CHAPTER.

Ashley, Ind., March 14.—"The Last Chapter" is a reading I heard given two years ago and I remember only one of the lines in the last verse, "When the last chapter is written." I have tried various times and places to secure this reading with no success. I thought perhaps some one of your readers might know something about it.

EXCEPTED FROM THE SHAKEDOWN.

Fairfield, Ill., March 12.—In an early issue of last week an article stated that pressure was brought to bear on employés of the mining department to contribute a certain amount of money. I want to state that in the seven years that I have been connected with the department I have never been asked to contribute one red cent. J. R.

SAVINGS ACCOUNT.

Chicago, March 15 [Legal Friend of the People].—A young single woman died 14 years ago and left a saving account of of $465. About a year after her death the remaining members of the family quitclaim deeded the money to one of themselves. The money was not needed at the time and now, 14 years later, when this assignee attempts to collect the money from the bank she is told that due to a change in banking laws [the $465 having accrued interest to over $500] the account cannot be released without either probating or posting a $1,000 bond.

Could you inform me as regards:

1. The above mentioned change in banking law.

2. Why it should be necessary to probate or post a bond of $1,000.

3. What is the statute of limitations for a just debt in the state of Illinois.
A. F.

1. We know of no recent change in the banking laws on this point, but there is an Illinois statute dispensing with probate in estates smaller than $500.

2. If the payment is made without probate some risks are involved and the party asked to make the payment can insist on this protection.

3. The limitation period is five years on oral agreements and 10 years on written contracts. If you are applying these facts to a case where a death has occurred please indicate how the question arises.
TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

LEGALITY OF WILL.

Chicago, March 14 [Legal Friend of the People].—My uncle died Oct. 20, 1939.

1. I was always told by my aunt that I was to get all she had.

2. This aunt died six years ago. My father was her only brother. My father is dead. Now, three months before my uncle's death, he left a new will.

3. I was not mentioned in this new will. He left his home and a certain amount of money to the minister and the rest is to be left to missions—in all he had about $20,000 to $25,000.

4. My husband has not worked since last March. He is in bad health and I am to be evicted soon. I went to see this minister and told him of my troubles at home. He told me that nothing can be done as I am not a blood relation of my uncle.

5. Would this stop me from breaking this will? C. A. R.

1. Such oral statements would be ineffective. The question is whether she left a will to that effect.

2. If she left no will, the sharing of her estate would be controled by the statute of descent.

3. He would have the power to leave you out in this matter as to assets belonging to him, including what he had taken by descent from his wife.

4. These facts do not alter your rights.

5. If you are not a blood relative we do not see how you could inherit even if the will should be set aside.

TODAY IN HISTORY

March 18, 1782.

John C. Calhoun, who resigned from the vice presidency of the United States, was born in South Carolina. In congress Calhoun was famous for his fiery attitude toward England preceding the war of 1812. He broke with Jackson on the principle of nullification, and resigned during his second term. It was said that if he had not stood by his convictions on state rights, Jackson would have chosen him instead of Van Buren as his successor.

DEPUTIES' TRIAL TO BARE PLOTTING OF FRENCH REDS

Orders Public Hearing for Communists.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Paris, March 17. — France decided today to admit the public to the courtroom in which 44 former communist members of the chamber of deputies will be put on trial on Wednesday. Then it began looking for a hall big enough to accommodate the crowd that is expected.

The former deputies are charged with having continued to take orders from Moscow's Third Internationale despite a government decree of September, 1939, dissolving the communist party in France.

Nine Face Death Sentence.

Nine of the accused Reds will be tried in default, having fled to foreign countries. Among them is Maurice Thorez, former leader of the French communists, who is believed to be in Moscow. The fugitives also are charged with crimes against the external security of the state and are liable to death sentences.

The trial normally would be held behind closed doors but the authorities apparently desire to give wide publicity to the exposure of the communist party's treasonable activities.

The hearing is expected to last several days. It acquires special significance because it will be held at a time when public opinion is particularly inflamed against Russia in consequence of Finland's fate.

In the last few days 26 subway and railroad employés were arrested on charges of having distributed communist defeatist leaflets and copies of the suppressed Red organ, L'Humanite, among passengers. Militant communists of this type, however, represent a distinct minority.

Unions Lose Many Followers.

The Hitler-Stalin pact has created great confusion among the communist rank and file. This is apparent in recent developments in the General Confederation of Labor unions, which has expelled the communists.

The confederation's membership, which reached 5,000,000 during the great strike wave in June, 1936, and still totaled 3,000,000 in November, 1938, now is estimated to be less than 2,000,000. Leo Jouhaux, leader of the confederation, who formerly was in close contact with the communist party, now is trying to rebuild his organization on a trade basis without political ties.

WAR BIRD DAHL, ONCE SENTENCED TO DEATH, HOME

New York, March 17 [Special].—Harold E. Dahl of Champaign, Ill., who flew combat airplanes for the Loyalists in Spain for six months in 1937, returned to the United States by ship today with a warning to young Americans who want to fight in other nations' wars.

"Believe me," he said, "war is no plaything."

Dahl was shot down for the second time July 12, 1937, and captured by Nationalist forces. He was sentenced to be shot Oct. 8, 1937, and reprieved by Gen. Francisco Franco, who fixed his sentence at life imprisonment. Dahl was a prisoner in a Spanish hospital until Feb. 22 when Franco pardoned him.

Today for the first time, Dahl revealed some of the rigors of aerial combat in the Spanish civil war.

In 50 Air Battles.

"We had only a few Russian flyers to help out," he said. "I often was in the air for six or seven hours a day, fighting three or more combats. Altogether, I must have been in 50 battles. I shot down six Fascist planes.

"I had been brought down on Feb. 18, 1937, when the enemy shot my plane in two. Luckily, I landed behind our lines. Then, in July, while I was flying with 50 pursuit planes escorting about 30 bombers, we ran into German Messerschmitts and Italian Fiats.

"I went into a power dive at 450 miles an hour with a flock of enemy planes on my tail and managed to bail out when my left wing tore off at 1,000 feet. When I landed Moorish Legionnaires came at me with bayonets. They hated all flyers and wanted to kill me. Then a Fascist sergeant arrived and marched me off to prison."

Greeted Torch Singer Wife.

Dahl's wife, a torch singer, arrived with photographers after the ship docked and greeted her husband, whom she had not seen for three years, with a fleeting kiss. Then they posed for photographers.

Dahl looked for officers, apprehensive lest he be arrested for Los Angeles authorities where he is charged with issuing fraudulent checks in 1936 before he started for Spain, but none appeared and he drove away in a car with a friend.

CCC ANNOUNCES FIRST SLASH IN ITS ENROLLMENT

Washington, D. C., March 17 (AP).—The Civilian Conservation corps today announced the first major reduction in enrollment since it was started in 1933.

James J. McEntee, director, said the corps would enroll only 65,000 young men and war veterans in the 20 day replacement program to start April 1. This will be 2,000 less than the last quarterly enrollment in January.

In line with a reduction in CCC funds made by congress McEntee said, "enrollment of continental young men and veterans will be reduced from 300,000 to 245,400 by July 1 and the number of camps from 1,500 to 1,227."

McEntee said that field reports showed 170,000 applicants for April replacement jobs, or almost three applications for each vacancy.

$200,000 BLAZE RAGES 8 HOURS IN EAU CLAIRE, WIS.

Eau Claire, Wis., March 17 (Special).—A loss of more than $200,000 was caused by a fire which early this morning destroyed two-thirds of the old National Electric company plant here.

Spontaneous combustion was blamed for the blaze, which raged from 4 a. m. until noon. Carl Mueller, president of the trucking company which owns the building said that the federal government was a heavy loser, since it had seven carloads of surplus commodities stored in the buildings.

The west wing of the building, in which the Van Gorden Boat works are located, was undamaged by the fire, being saved by a fire wall, but the company lost 30 boats stored in the damaged section.

BROADCASTERS PLEAD CAUSE OF F-M PLAN TODAY

Seek Growing Space for New Radio Marvel.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 17.—A demand that radio's newest marvel—frequency modulation—be given a prompt opportunity for growth will be made this week before the Federal Communications commission by 55 broadcasters who have led in development of the new system. The commission has ordered hearings starting tomorrow to determine the future of the sensational new technique developed by Maj. Edwin H. Armstrong of Columbia university.

Final plans for the presentation of testimony were made today by the F-M Broadcasters, Inc., broadcasting organization which is the spearhead for frequency modulation promotion. Membership in the organization was swelled yesterday from 30 to 55. John Sheppard III. of Boston, Mass., president of the group, announced that the 100th application for an F-M station license had been filed with the commission. Station W-G-N has an application for an F-M station pending. About a score of experimental permits already have been granted.

Now Held in Five Channels.

With applicants rushing into line to get permits, FMBI's prime demand will be for more channels in which to spread out. Until now F-M has been confined to five channels sandwiched between government and educational channels on one side, and television channels on the other. These F-M channels lie between 42.5 and 43.5 megacycles.

FMBI'S engineering committee today declared that fifteen channels would not prove sufficient for the needs of F-M. It urged that additional facilities be made available in channels as nearly adjacent as possible to present allocations without undue injury to other services. This proximity was urged in part to facilitate F-M receiver design.

Would Let Public Decide.

F-M advocates declared that if a conflict may develop between television, or some other radio service, and frequency modulation, the American public, in final analysis, should be the judge of which service it wants most.

The F-M proponents will seek to convince the commission that the new system outperforms the present standard technique, or amplitude modulation, in excellence of tone, suppression of noise, and in economy, and that it will provide extensive additional radio coverage for the nation.

The latter will be accomplished, they say, because F-M permits stations to operate on the same channels without interference.

Higher Power to Be Sought.

They will argue also for prompt commercial licensing of F-M to help finance the cost of additional development. Several F-M pioneers already have spent well in excess of a quarter million dollars each to promote the new system.

Higher power for F-M stations also will be sought. A limit of 1,000 watts is now in force and 50,000 watts is the objective.

More than 30 witnesses, headed by Maj. Armstrong and Sheppard, will plead the case of frequency modulation. Witnesses of other broadcasting interests and other radio services also will give their reactions.

Sheppard, FMBI president, is head of the Yankee network of New England. John V. L. Hogan, chief executive of the high fidelity station, WQXR, New York, is vice president of FMBI, and Robert T. Bailey, Yankee network, is secretary.

Directors named to various terms yesterday are: Carl Meyers, W-G-N's chief engineer; Walter J. Damm, WTMJ, Milwaukee, Wis.; C. M. Jansky Jr., radio engineer, Washington, all for one year; Theodore C. Streibert, WOR, New York; Hogan and Ray H. Manson, Stromberg-Carlson company, Rochester, N. Y., two years; Sheppard, Franklin M. Doolittle, WDRC, and Paul W. Morency, WTIC, both of Hartford, Conn., three years.

Co-star on W-G-N

Dr. Daniel H. Pedtke (left) and Everett Marshall during broadcast on W-G-N yesterday.

Everett Marshall, concert and operatic baritone, and the famous Glee club of Notre Dame university co-starred on yesterday's presentation of the Fifth Row Center broadcast over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network.

Before an enthusiastic studio audience Mr. Marshall sang "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen," "Danny Boy," "Where the River Shannon Flows." He was accompanied on the last number by 16 selected voices of the Glee club, with the W-G-N orchestra, directed by Joseph Johnson, providing an instrumental background.

The Glee club, directed by Dr. Daniel H. Pedtke, head of the Notre Dame music department sang "Snowy Breasted Pearl" and "Minstrel Boy" in one medley, and "Kerry Dance" and "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" in its second group. The club also sang two Notre Dame songs, "Irish Backs" and the "Victory March."

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

Gertrude Stein wrote a friend in Chicago the other day that she wants to go into the movies, appearing herself in the Autobiography of Alice B. Toklas. Well, Hollywood ought to put her on celluloid, and with a little imagination an interesting documentary picture might be evolved.

* *

The Chicagoan was Samuel Steward, author and Loyola university instructor. One of the delightful stories he tells about Miss Stein, whom he has visited in France on several occasions, concerns Cecil Beaton getting lost last summer three days before war was declared.

"He and Sir Francis Rose and I were all staying at her house, frittering away the pleasant afternoons in reading or talking or painting," relates Dr. Steward. "I have a wonderful mental picture of Cecil sitting in a sun chair, wearing a jacket over a sweater with broad red and white horizontal stripes, and on his head one of Gertrude's incredible high crowned straw sunhats, and wearing those ugly English knee length khaki shorts, while he fiddled with a rose, and sketched the broad and quiet valley. But one day they went riding and I did not want to go, so they dropped me at Belley near by [where Brillat-Savarin lived, and where his fragrant ghost lives on in the tradition of food at the Hotel Pernollet].

"As the day went on, clouds gathered, and a drizzling rain began. Alice called, and said they had got back and would be over later to pick me up, but that Cecil had gone out for a little walk and she was afraid he would get wet. A couple hours went by, and it was really dark. Suddenly Gertrude called, frantic. 'Go right to the gendarmérie,' she said. 'Tell them to call out all the troops from the caserne. Cecil Beaton is lost!' And so I did, but they only laughed, because after all war was near, and—shruggingly—'it is only one man, monsieur.' This I explained to Gertrude. 'We're going out to look for him ourselves then!' she shouted, very excited. I said something stupid about the war. 'I am not at all interested in the war, I am interested in where is Cecil Beaton!' she yelled.

"Then she hung up and I sat waiting, safe from the rain. Later I learned that she had gone to the caserne; she had got a camion filled with Moroccan soldiers and armed with flashlights; and with herself directing them, this strange searching party combed the hills. And they did find Cecil, very wet and bedraggled and wispy, walking around in circles and hoarse from hollering for help."

Switched.

There ought to be some good income tax stories, but the only one we've heard is about the young man who made out his income tax return on the last day. On the same day he received a box of chocolate cookies from his mother. He wrote her immediately to thank her, but the letter and the tax return were placed in the wrong envelopes. So his mother received the financial report and Mr. Carter Harrison a letter that reads:

"Thank you so much for the cookies. We think of you every day . . ."

Kibitzer.

Then there was the man who was riding on an eastbound Madison street car at 4 p. m., March 15, preparing his income tax return as he rode. The man who shared the seat with him spotted three mistakes between Halsted and La Salle street where the kibitzer—one of the column scouts—got off.

Long Applause Says Farewell to Ted Shawn

BY EDWARD BARRY.

An era of a sort ended for Chicago yesterday afternoon when Ted Shawn and his men dancers gave their last local performance before disbanding. The Studebaker theater was crowded with loyal Shawnites who, not content with sitting thru a program of extraordinary length, stayed around after the show to clap a friendly farewell to the dancers and to receive in return innumerable smiles and bows. It was 6 o'clock when the audience finally broke up.

During all the years Mr. Shawn has been coming here with his own troupe [and during the years before that, when he was dancing with Ruth St. Denis] he has held his following by reason of something youthful and simple and exhilarating in his work.

In recent seasons, it is true, he has tried an increasing amount of symbolism and has been caught often in those hands up, aspiring, heaven storming postures which modern dancers so delight in, but some sound instinct within him has prevented him from trying to freight his work too heavily with implications. His gift, and the gift of the men whom he has trained, is for that pure, nonrepresentative type of dancing calculated to inflame people with delight rather than to trouble them with philosophical problems.

Yesterday's program, for instance, was sententiously called "The Dome" ["Life, like a dome of many colored glass, stains the white radiance of eternity"], but this far fetched title did not preclude excellent dancing and a heartening display of blithe spirits. [It would not preclude anything, come to think of it.] Again and again Mr. Shawn and his men forgot their unifying idea in the sheer intoxication of their magnificently skilled dancing.

No information is as yet available on Mr. Shawn's plans. He will keep up his connection with his art, but presumably as teacher and choreographer rather than as dancer.

Iso Briselli, the young Russian violinist who made his Chicago debut on March 3 with the Civic orchestra, returned to Orchestra hall yesterday for a solo recital. His program consisted of Bach, Veracini, Brahms, and several modern composers.

The most noticeable aspect of Mr. Briselli's style is its vigor. Strong accents, driving phrases, depth and intensity of tone—all contribute to this main impression. Listening more closely one finds other things. There are fine color gradations, a very musical use of the rubato, and an entire absence of any suggestion of forcing.

TENOR IN DEBUT RECITAL

Napoleon Reed, a smooth voiced, assured, lyric tenor, gave his first downtown recital in Kimball hall in the afternoon. His program included familiar operatic arias, German, French, and English songs, and Negro spirituals.

An aria from "La Bohème" and two Debussy songs came off best, for here the tenor sustained the vocal line with ease, and ably projected the music moods.—R. E.

Well Styled Princess Slip

WOMAN'S AND MISS' PRINCESS SLIP.

The lines of this princess slip are almost as sleek as those of a foundation garment. There's not an excess inch of fabric to bulge, but there's flare where you want it and proper placing of fullness. Washable crêpe, taffeta, and lingerie cottons all are suited fabrics. The shoulderline may be built up, as sketched at the upper left, or have a heart-shaped neckline and slender straps. This slip may be as tailored or as dressy as you wish, and if it's a slip for your evening gown that you need, the sketch at lower left illustrates the long length.

Style No. 2041 is designed for sizes 14 and 16 and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 2½ yards of 39 inch material for slip with straps; 2⅞ yards for model with built-up shoulders; 3½ yards for evening version.

Square Dances Are Real Threat to Wallflower

If there is such a thing as a wallflower who loves her work she had better be on guard. The National Dance league is planning to set her to dancing willy-nilly.

"If parties are planned cleverly," Miss Lucille Marsh, league director, said yesterday, "there will be no wallflowers and no stag line. Shy, maladjusted girls will dance with shy, maladjusted boys, as well as with every one else present."

The miracle, Miss Marsh told 150 dancing teachers in the Stevens hotel yesterday, will come about thru the revival of the cotillion idea of a party, in which the guests come as individuals, not couples, and thru the square dance. The square dance, Miss Marsh added, is now very fashionable.

Yesterday's session opened with a demonstration of a new dance which looks old: The Jiminy Cricket. This, Miss Marsh said, was the spontaneous invention of a group of north shore children, and was inspired by one of the characters in the famous children's story, "Pinocchio." The steps resemble the steps of the square dance or quadrille, but are fitted to the rhythm and words of a song about Mr. Cricket.

The group then turned to the legitimate square dance, as expounded by Guy Colby, of 3230 Oconto avenue.

Mr. Colby, a caller since he was 8 years old and a teacher since 16, was born in the Kentucky hills and has been dancing ever since.

There are probably several hundred changes to the basic foundation of the square dance, Colby said, and any number of fine hoedowns or breakdowns, as tunes like "Turkey in the Straw" or "Chicken Reel" are called. The basic steps can be learned very quickly, Colby said, but it takes three or four years to learn to be a pretty good caller. One reason is the number of different instructions they must sing or shout to the dancers. For example:

"You swing mine and I'll swing yours;
Now step back and watch her smile,
Now step up and swing her awhile;
Now step back and watch her grin;
Now step up and swing her agin,
Then leave her alone and swing your own."

Well, sir, by the time Mr. Colby got around to "Duck the oysters, now the clams," in a waltz quadrille everybody was having more fun than you could shake a fiddle at.

Young Child Not Naughty but Playful

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"My little Billy is getting to be so disobedient," writes Billy's serious young mother. "I tell him to do something and he laughs and runs away. Sometimes I tell him not to do a thing and he will look at me out of the corner of his eye and do the very thing I've forbidden. I think he is old enough to obey. I've even spanked him, I'm sorry to say."

What many mothers don't realize is that as their babies no longer are babies and rooted in one place, but get so they can walk and talk and run, they become, increasingly, personalities. They are ready to make the most of their small world of home and mother. They want to find out what things and people are like. Play and laughter are early delights, and also early needs. The small curly head who laughs and runs away, the little cherub who cocks an eye at you and does just what you've told him not to do, is just playing with you. You're such a practical, busy, grownup person that, if you play at all, you probably leave it until the end of the day. But small sons and daughter don't wait. They take their fun where they find it. They like to stir up a little excitement. If you don't provide it, they'll create some themselves, and it may look like naughtiness.

Don't take these little antics too hard. Don't think this playfulness and seeming contrariness are the beginning of disobedience. On the contrary, if you give your small child plenty of spontaneous interest and playfulness, then when you really want him to fall in with your aims [or what you call "obey"] tactfulness and cheerful firmness will work.

"When Your Young Child gets the 'No' Habit" is a leaflet of interest to parents and nurses. Send a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill. Our booklet "Prayers and Graces for Children" also is obtainable on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

When a declarer has reason to feel, because of information gleaned from the bidding, that a certain finesse is doomed to fail it must follow that any other device, such as attempting a "hoax," is preferable, as in today's hand.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 diamond	3 spades	Pass	4 spades
Pass	4 no trump	Pass	5 no trump
Pass	6 spades	Pass	Pass
Pass

South's bid of four no trump was quite unwarranted after he already had expressed a strong holding by his bid of two spades over one diamond and was responsible for his reaching a contract that had no legitimate chance with a diamond opening lead. Fortunately for himself and partner, his play was better than his bidding.

West conventionally opened the fourth highest of his partner's bid suit, and declarer's ace took East's ten. After instantly diagnosing that the all important heart king must be "off-side," as part of East's bid, declarer embarked on a bold attempt at a hoax. He led the queen of hearts and went right up with dummy's ace. Then he returned the four of hearts from dummy. East really was "on the spot": declarer easily might have held the singleton heart queen and therefore would be trying to establish dummy's jack by a ruffing-out process, hoping East had the king insufficiently guarded. At any rate, that was the way East figured, and so he ducked the second heart. Declarer's ten won, but he still was far from home. He led the spade king and overtook with dummy's ace [while East nonchalantly discarded his seven of diamonds], then led and ruffed high a third round of hearts. A low spade to the nine, and a high ruff of dummy's last heart followed, after which dummy's eight of trumps was used as an entry. Now the six of diamonds was led and how East wished he had kept that seven of diamonds! He could not be sure, of course, that his partner, instead of declarer, had the nine spot, but he did know that after he perforce won this diamond trick he was thru. And so it proved. On lead with a diamond, East had the unhappy choice of leading a club up to the North-South combined tenace, or leading another diamond which would allow a ruff and a discard.

Obviously, had East been able to duck a diamond, allowing West to win with the nine, a club lead thru the queen would have defeated the contract.

German Consul to Receive for Red Cross Head

BY JUDITH CASS.

HANDSOMELY engraved invitations to a reception for the president of the German Red Cross, H. R. H., the duke of Saxe-Coburg, have been received from the consul general of Germany, Dr. E. L. Baer. The party will be given on Thursday, March 28, from 4:30 until 7 o'clock at the Drake hotel.

Karl Eduard, duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, passed thru Chicago last week on his way from San Francisco to Washington, D. C., to confer informally with Norman Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross. He will return to Chicago on the 27th, to spend a week here and will stay at the Drake.

First Visit to Chicago for 1934 Fair Recalled.

It will be the second visit here of the duke, who is a member of the Nazi party in Germany and a close friend of Hitler. He was here for a day in September, 1934, at which time he visited A Century of Progress and was a guest at luncheon of the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross.

The duke was born and educated in England and is a grandson of Queen Victoria. He reigned over the German duchies of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha from 1905 until his abdication in 1918. The duke arrived in the United States the long way around on this trip, by way of Japan and the Pacific ocean, and before returning to San Francisco he will visit a number of other American cities. The reception that Dr. Baer is giving for the distinguished visitor is but one of many parties that are being planned for him during his short stay.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Newell Childs have gone east for the marriage in New York today of Miss Nancy Miller and Edward F. Cavanagh Jr. Mrs. Childs is to be a bridesmaid. She and her husband will remain in the east about two weeks and when they return they hope to be able to occupy a house they have taken in Lake Forest.

Mrs. Childs is the former Jean Joers of New York. She and her husband have been at the Whitehall and with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Frederick Childs, in Lake Forest since they came back from London last fall.

Mrs. Grannis Leaving for Holiday in Georgia.

Mrs. Uri B. Grannis is leaving this evening to spend two weeks at her home in Thomasville, Ga. Her daughter, Miss Adrienne Ely, a senior at Dobbs Ferry, will join her during the Easter vacation. Miss Ely probably will be among this fall's debutantes.

The Kent Clows have left for Sea Island, Ga., where their children will join them during school vacations. Sub-deb Frances Clow attends the Foxcroft school. Kent Jr., is at Hotchkiss.

Mr. and Mrs. John K. Coolidge of Winnetka are among those enjoying a vacation at Sea Island.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Prosser have arrived at home after having spent a month in Jamaica.

The Ira C. Darlings are returning tomorrow from a holiday in California. Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Y. Ball will arrive next Saturday from the west coast just in time to join Winnetka's Easter parade.

Thomas Connors Visit Canadian Ski Resort.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Connors have gone to Mount Tremblant lodge, a ski resort near Montreal, where their older sons are joining them for their holiday from the Taft school. Mr. and Mrs. Connors will return to Lake Forest April 1.

The Nathan McClures have postponed their winter trip until after March 28, the day that Nathan Jr.'s Easter holiday from Yale is over. Mr. McClure Jr. returned to Geneva for the vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Searles and Mr. and Mrs. William Boudreau have left for a holiday in the southwest. They will visit New Orleans, Texas, and Arizona.

Helen Hayes will be an especial guest at the last of this winter's concerts by the Russian Trio at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Arts club. Among those who have made reservations for luncheon after the

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

From the notebook:

Never, in all our years of experimenting, have we got such a positive reaction from friends, enemies, and complete strangers as we did recently on a new shade of nail enamel. It's a deep, deep red with black undertones and no soul we encountered had a kind word to say for it—or for us while we were wearing it.

The anguished outcries of the men, in particular, could be heard for rods.

If you want to please the men you'd better not forget that where dark polish is concerned they still merely tolerate it. They don't really like it—and they can be plenty articulate in their hatred of it if the shade is extremely dark.

We've grown to like dark polish, in muted tones, but we learned a lot in the last week about the dangers of going to extremes!

One of the greatest of the beauty experts tells us that achieving complexion radiance is the main beauty aim of women nowadays. Women are realizing that makeup is the dramatization of perfection, not perfection in itself, and there is a renewed interest lately in methods and preparations that keep the skin clear, fine textured, and glowing.

It's this reawakening, as much as anything else, which is sending women back to the beauty salons [they slipped away somewhat during the depression] for face treatments that preserve the contour and encourage and maintain a perfect complexion.

Good Morning!

[It couldn't be Ann Sothern week or anything like that, could it?] Sort of seemed that way, the other day, for I saw two pictures in the loop and she was in both of them.

We'll talk about "Congo Maisie" this morning.

There's nothing "super" about the piece, but it stacks up as an interesting little jungle drama, better as to acting than as to story. It may also be regarded as a good work, for it sure did hand out work to a lot of extras—cannibals, medicine men, et such.

Congo Maisie is an entertainer, who, with a flippant, bitter young man once a doctor, but who now insists on being called "Mister" Shane, finds herself stranded in the medicine station of a large corporation with African holdings. This station, now in charge of a young Dr. McWade and his wife, had, you learn, been presided over some two years ago by Shane. Why had he left? Because he had tired of working hard for practically nothing and decided to become a mere money-maker.

Various occurrences which transpire while he and Maisie—at first as friendly as two strange bulldogs—visit the doc and Mrs. Doc and are instrumental in making a really nice guy out of Shane, or, I suppose I SHOULD say—bringing out the latent good in the bad little boy.

The film has some suspense and a number of laughs. Ann Sothern, with her kind hearted, offhand manner, and charming smile, makes Maisie popular with you from the start. Rita Johnson, that other pleasing blonde with the laughing eyes, is nice as Mrs. Doc. . . . John Carroll gives an excellent account of himself as Shane, and all other players are able. Director, too.

Sets and scenery seem phoney, but they photographed all right.

As program junglers go, "Congo Maisie" is a satisfactory program jungler.

Gored Topcoats a Real Break for Tall Girls

BY REA SEEGER.

The average figure has been the pampered darling of the designers for so long that when the long, tall charmers finally get a break its something of a sensation. That break is here in the blouse backed, and gored and flared skirts of the newest coats.

The corduroy models are flawless for the tall streamlines, being made of soft velvety wide wale corduroy in beige, cadet blue, luscious pastels and white. Skirts flare with a great flourish, because of the many gores. There's a shallow fitted yoke around the belt and hipline and a yoke at the shoulder section. Pockets are slanted into position and tailored smartly without flaps.

Such a coat is designed for spectator and active sports wear, altho they are so simply cut that they can be worn for casual daytime clothes without making a fashion mistake.

Other swanky spring models for the willowy shopper are the coats of smooth, fine wool in high colors. One heart breaker is of vermilion wool hung with four of the largest pockets ever swung on a hipline. Only a tall and thin personality could get away with such a liberally pocketed creation. The skirt is flared like those in the corduroy models, the blouse back is also accentuated by a shallow yoke belt, and the chest is covered with pockets to match the gargantuan affairs on each hip. It's a stunning coat for general wear this spring with monotone dresses of wool or silk or as a companion coat with a printed silk dress to complete a most individual ensemble.

For Your Easter Ego

TWEEDS

$29.95

They fairly sing of Spring in their young, light, neutral tones . . . flecked in color or smartly accented in dark bindings. Swingy tuxedo fronts, proud pockets, correctly tailored shoulders, all contrive a casual perfection. You'll wear them over everything you own.

Gun Bought Grant

SYNOPSIS.

Framed by his enemy, Santee Bales, Sam Teacher, outlaw cowboy, shoots the bank robber dressed to resemble him. The United States commissioner offers him the governor's full pardon for all the crimes accredited to him if he will persuade obstinate Matt Drury to sell the railroad the right of way thru one of his canyons. Sam accepts on his own high terms of $25,000 in addition to full pardon. He knows the governor needs the railroad to get votes and Drury's money for campaign expenses. Sam gets a job on Drury's ranch, but uses the name of Jim Melody so the other cowboys won't know his identity. Defending a horse, Sam gets into a fight with Drury's worthless son, Steve. Instead of firing Sam, Matt Drury accepts Sam's advice about reforming Steve and his spoiled but pretty daughter, Celia. Steve is to get a small stake and go on his own; Celia put to work and made to run the house. Bales, who tried to get Sam to double-cross the governor and get the title to the canyon himself, gets young Steve into a crooked poker game. The game ends with Steve the big loser, and Steve going into partnership with Bales, ostensibly to raise horses. Celia has a run-in with her dad and leaves home. Sam learns of Steve's and Bales' partnership and is determined to investigate.

INSTALLMENT XIII.

CAPTURED.

While the hostler was getting him, Sam thought back over what he had heard from Celia, and piecing all the information together it pointed to just one thing. Santee Bales had in some way talked young Drury into going partners on a horse ranch, Old Man Drury to furnish the land. And that land, unless Santee was losing his persuasive powers, would be the canyon of the Rio Medio, the pass the railroad wanted.

Sam rode north and east following the directions the hostler had given him. As he rode across this upland country, rolling and thick with grama grass, he studied the country to the north. The land tilted here in a gradual slope lifting into the foothills of the Utes. Behind them, the mountains towered in a ragged blue range from horizon to horizon, their slopes green with pines. In several places, he noticed, the peaks sloped down to low notches, and any of these would make a pass for the railroad line. He didn't wholly understand the importance of this one canyon, but reserved judgment. After all, the Commissioner should know whereof he spoke.

By mid-afternoon, however, it became clear. The foothills, whose base seemed to be a fawn colored plateau, gradually dissolved into separate parts as he approached. And then the reason for the choice of Rio Medio canyon became clear. From a distance, looking toward the mountains, it seemed as if the land tilted gently up to the foothills. It did not. It sloped down. Several miles from the foothills the rolling prairie ceased at the base of a great high fawn-colored rim that blended in with the prairie. It lifted several hundred feet to the flats above, and its face, as far as the eye reached, was unbroken. It was a great wall, and from under it the whole north and the mountains were blotted out. It was a massive barrier of rock.

Sam traveled its face for three hours, heading east, until, rounding a shoulder, a green valley appeared ahead and a little below him. Pausing, he regarded this spot, his glance following the valley up where it knifed thru the high rim. The Rio Medio—more a wide stream than a river, fed by springs up in the mountains for centuries, had sawn a gently sloping valley thru the rim. For 50 miles to either side of it there was no other gradual descent from this rim. It was here in this canyon the railroad had to lay its tracks for the descent to the plain. And it was here, Sam knew, that Santee Bales would locate his horse ranch.

Sam sloped down into the green valley, keeping to the coulees and to the brush, his glance on the ground for tracks. All he wanted was evidence which he could lay before Matthew Drury. Pearly had told him this morning that Steve was out looking for a location, and chances were that they were in this valley today.

He worked his way closer and closer to the canyon mouth, casting about for any sign of horse tracks. But they were unaccountably missing. Had Santee, to make his choice appear more reasonable, agreed to look at other locations first? Sam halted almost at the mouth of the canyon and debated entering. The mouth was wide enough so that he could hide in case he heard anything.

His mind made up, he pushed on. Tall pinons and scrub cedar screened the shoulder of rock where the canyon cut into the rim wall. Great boulders broken off in some distant day had slid down to the canyon floor, and they stood like a massive forest thru which he treaded his way.

He was looking ahead, his sight alert and carefully searching out this boulder field, or he would probably have heard it. When he did hear the faint hiss above and behind him, he rolled out of the saddle, his hand streaking to his gun. But it was too late, and he felt the rope slap around him, settle to his elbows and pin them before he was yanked roughly out of the saddle. He landed on the ground with a breath-jarring thud, tried to roll, was yanked to his knees, and then to his face, where he kicked frantically to free himself.

He heard a soft chuckle from above him and felt his gun being slid out of its holster. Then the pressure on the rope slackened and he rose to step out of the loop and face a long, bleach-eyed puncher who had a gun pointed at his chest.

"Hell, Tex," Sam said. It was Santee Bales' understrapper and an old acquaintance, one of the two men who had engaged young Drury and Bales in the poker game. Sam turned his head to look at the man who had made the cast. He was standing against a shoulder of rock, coiling his rope.

"Well, well," Sam drawled. "The lobo twins, Tex and Shorty." He switched his glance back to the Texan. "Why the reception?"

"You wouldn't know, would you?" the Texan drawled.

"I know one thing," Sam murmured. "Let that gun off and you'll have the governor swarmin' all over you."

"If we wanted to beef you, we wouldn't of roped you, Sammy boy," Tex said. "No, your carcass has to be handled pretty careful."

"What does Santee want of me?"

"Maybe we better go see," Tex said. He gestured to Shorty. "Come here and cover him," he waited until Shorty had flipped his gun out and pointed it at Sam, and then Tex holstered his own. His next move was to hit Sam in the face as hard as he could. Sam saw it coming, almost ducked, but not quite.

It was like a sledge hitting him in the cheek. He sprawled on his back, rolled once, and was brought up against a boulder. Slowly, he rose to his feet, dusting his trousers off.

"That was for Runt," Tex said. "Besides that, it was for me, too. I've always wanted to slug that baby face of yours."

Sam's eyes were wicked as his glance raised to Tex's and held it. "I never held any more against you, Tex, than I did any killer. But from now on, just watch out."

"Get on that horse," Tex said, smiling with pleasure. Sam mounted, and under the gun of Shorty Tex tied his feet under the horse's belly.

Tex and Shorty mounted, Tex taking the reins of Sam's horse. They crossed the canyon, heading east, and clung to the base of the rim for two miles. At the mouth of a small rincon, a wind erosion in the soft rubble of the talus, Tex turned in. There was enough room to hide a half dozen horses besides a camp. Three pairs of blankets lay around the dead ashes of a fire. A small pinon grew against the rim wall. Sam was ordered off the horse and told to sit down tailor fashion with his back against the tree. His hands were tied behind the tree, and a loop put about his waist. It was the Indian way of typing a man, more effective than any other.

Sam said, "Where's Santee?"

"You got a long wait," Shorty said. "Better get some sleep."

Tex rolled into the blankets and dozed off while Shorty kept watch. Sam tried to pry information out of Shorty, but he wasn't talking. The sun set and Shorty built up a fire. They cooked a meal and ate it, not even bothering to offer Sam any. After that Shorty rolled in the blankets and Tex settled down to the long night vigil. Occasionally he would look over at Sam and laugh.

"What's funny?" Sam asked finally.

"I won't spoil it for you," Tex said.

Around midnight, Tex rose and walked to the mouth of the rincon to listen. Suddenly he dodged back and doused water on the fire. Immediately Sam opened his mouth and yelled, "Help! Help!"

Tex, drawing his gun, cursed him with savage violence, and Sam kept on yelling. Suddenly a booming laugh came across the night and Sam ceased yelling. It was Santee Bales' laugh.

Tex built up the fire and Santee rode into the rincon and dismounted. He looked at Sam and grinned. "Sam Teacher yellin' for help." He shook his head in mock gravity. "What's this country comin' to, Tex?"

Sam, a sneer on his face, said, "Don't I see some ink marks on your face, Santee?"

Santee lunged at him and hit him twice with the palm of his hand. "One more crack like that, Sam, and I'm liable to lose my business head," he said thickly.

"How'd you get it off?" Sam jibed. "Or is that a new face—your other one?"

Santee rose slowly, glaring at him, his hands fisting and unfisting. Then he threw back his head and laughed and walked over to the fire. He drank a pot of coffee, ate some jerky and pan bread, and then rolled a smoke.

[Copyright: 1940: By The Chicago Tribune.]

I can scarcely mention coffee and coffee making without "sticking my neck out." There's always some one ready to argue that what I have said is not the truth about coffee at all, and to offer other ideas. It appears that every coffee devotee has his own pet method of making the beverage and nobody's going to get him to believe that any other method can touch it.

So I say, make coffee the way you like it best, for you have to drink it. My suggestions are rather general, not for the connoisseur, but for housewives who have trouble making a good standard cup of coffee. [Really good coffee is about as scarce as hen's teeth, I think you'll admit.]

Leading hotels and restaurants make good coffee because much of their business depends upon it. They can't serve good coffee one day and an indifferent brew the next. The beverage they serve must be good, and it must taste the same every day. Therefore, these restaurants make coffee according to rule.

Attention to these basic coffee making rules is essential if the beverage is going to be as good as it should be.

RULES OF COFFEE MAKING.

1. Always use fresh coffee of good quality. When you find a satisfactory brand, stick to it. Buy in small quantities in order to assure freshness.

2. Have the coffee ground, or grind it yourself, to suit the kind of coffee-maker you use. Coarse coffee is fine for the old fashioned pot you take to picnics. Medium grind is the best for percolators, and a fine grind suits drip and vacuum coffee makers.

3. Keep the coffeemaker scrupulously clean with soap and water, and a scalding after every use. Filters should be replaced often. Never allow brewed coffee to stand in the coffeemaker from one meal to the next or overnight.

4. Always use exact measurements of coffee and water. Average proportions are 2 tablespoons [level] of coffee to 1 standard measuring cup of water, but there is so much argument on this point that I am willing to concede that good coffee can be made with more or less, just so measurements are accurate. With drip coffeemakers, use of less than 2 tablespoons of fine coffee usually is recommended. Coffee making authorities frown, with me, upon the sloppy "heaping tablespoonful" formula which most housewives go by. The reason is that, while an average "heaping tablespoon" is equal to 2 level tablespoons, there is no means of keeping the heaping tablespoonful accurate. This kind of measurement is only guesswork, an approximate measure, not a precise one.

5. Brew your coffee according to directions for the kind of coffeemaker you use. Percolated coffee requires 8 to 12 minutes of percolation. Drip coffee takes only as long a time as is needed for boiling water to filter thru the grounds. Vacuum-made coffee takes three minutes or so after the hot water has risen to the top compartment.

6. Remove the grounds from the coffee as soon as it has brewed. Even if you've made the antiquated, picnic style boiled coffee [which can oe very good], follow this rule. Easiest way is to tie the grounds loosely in a bag before brewing.

The Housewife

A good book deserves an artistic cover. You can easily make beautiful jackets for your favorite books by providing yourself with large sheets of hand blocked, imported Italian paper. These are available in four or five different designs, each one more fascinating and charmingly colored than the other. Depending on the sizes of the books to be covered, you can get two or three jackets from each sheet. And the cost is nominal.

Crochet Hook Makes Turbans

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Turbans to the right and left of us, and the question is, which do we want? They all are beautiful and especially the crocheted ones, which are made in the knot design or in the crocheted cross-stitch pattern. They are extremely simple to create and may be twisted to suit the individual. Above all, they are delightfully cool for summer when crocheted of lightweight cotton cord.

For instructions in crocheting the turbans, No. X-948, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

In-Law Crisis Best Settled Prenuptially

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"We intend to be married shortly. like all couples, we hope and crave to be alone in our own little home. The problem is Dave's mother. To me, she is more than a problem as things now stand; a hopeless barrier, as I see her.

"Dave's mother has everything a woman of her age could possibly want. She can do whatever she pleases, being a widow with some means. She really is young looking to be my intended husband's mother.

"Luckily, Dave feels the same as I do, that there isn't a chance in Hades if we take his mother in, as she is planning. But on attempting to break the news to her we both sag in the middle and can't go thru with it. I tell him it is his job to break the news to her. He agrees, but says every time he gets the speech prepared, the words stick in his mouth and he sits there letting her go on planning what she'll send to storage and what she'll bring into our home.

"I know after she does learn the bad news that she'll bear me a hatred she'll never get over. I know, if I let her come, Dave and I shall be separated inside of two years, if not before. Have you any advice for the likes of me, Miss Blake?

"IRENE."

Stick to your guns, Irene! One skirmish now will prevent a future of warring. Besides, you have the grip-hold on the situation right now, which you'd lose once the woman got in as your legal mother-in-law. If you have to tell the woman herself, tell her. Tell her you'll do everything under heaven to preserve friendly relations, but she can't live with you. Be adamant about it, firm, unyielding.

It would be better, of course, if you could influence Dave to break the news and have the scene over with before you appear. She will see, if he is firm, that she has to abide by his decision.

On the House

Hints for that kitchen you're going to re-do this spring: Save labor with a cove base turned up around the walls and base cabinets. Check on costs of a glass brick wall in one kitchen corner; it will diffuse direct sunlight on your work spaces and keep out peekers-in. Linoleum is an excellent material to use for your work-tops as it tends to deaden sound and is easy on your dishes.

Prebreakfast Beauty Rites Bring Results

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Why not join the really smart set, to which a number of the best and smartest women already have sworn allegiance, and become a prebreakfast beauty pursuer, Get the early morning habit.

Now, there is a formula for you, and devoting the first waking moments to it, you are in a better position to get the habit. Most of us, no matter how promptly we have to be at work on time in the morning, putter away a good 15 minutes. Maybe we loaf it out in bed, wide awake, but too lazy to make the leap to the floor.

Drink a glass of water first thing when you get up. Rinse and splash cold water on the eyes for their greater brilliance and awakeness. Then apply cream to your skin as lubricant, but keep it on a few minutes while you go thru your exercises.

Yes, that's the catch in it! You have a brief morning exercise program, at least two good exercises which you must repeat and repeat and repeat in a room flooded with fresh air. You can choose your own exercises, but you wouldn't be wise if you did not choose those your body needs most.

Then your bath. Take the face cream off first, of course. Then into your fresh undies and stockings and outergarments, and so to breakfast and to work, feeling fit as a fiddle and looking fitter.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 17.—Bill Lee and Claude Passeau felt today that Connie Mack had enough fun in the Connie Mack day ceremonies before the Cubs met the Athletics. So they led the Chicagoans to a 4 to 2 victory after 8,000 spectators had cheered as the 77 year old Philadelphia manager was presented with gifts and compliments.

It was the first meeting of Cubs and Athletics since the A's whipped the Cubs four games out of five in the 1929 world series. It was a much speedier contest than any of those in 1929, being completed in the rather remarkable time of 1 hour and 20 minutes. The first two innings of the Cub-Sox series last Thursday took over an hour. At least the boys are getting more rapid.

Double Play Stops A's.

The A's started with a burst of power that indicated a hatful of runs as a token to their aged boss. But a double play cooled the American leaguers and they stayed cool the rest of the contest.

Wally Moses opened against Lee with a single and stopped at third on a double by Benny McCoy. Eddie Collins Jr. then rammed a single thru Bill Rogell, Moses scoring and McCoy stopping at third. Dee Miles lined to Dominic Dallessandro and McCoy was doubled at the plate on Dal's throw to Al Todd. Dick Siebert bounced to Russell.

Rogell Hits a Homer.

Rogell lost no time in evening the score with his long-time American league adversaries. He led off the Cub offensive by banging one of Lester McCrabb's tosses over the right field screen.

The A's resumed the lead in the fourth when Siebert lifted one of Lee's pitches over the right field wall for their last run.

The Cubs went ahead in the fifth at the expense of Chubby Dean. Passeau was hit by a pitched ball with one down, then Rogell fanned. Bill Herman tripled, scoring Passeau, and the winning run came home when Herman scored on Augie Galan's single. A homer by Glen Russell gave the Cubs their superfluous run in the sixth. Russell made three of the Cubs' seven hits.

SHAMROCKS BEAT HORNETS TO LEAD HOCKEY PLAYOFF

The C. Y. O. Shamrocks defeated the Hornets yesterday, 2 to 1, in the first of a two game total goal series for the championship of the Chicago amateur hockey league in the Arena.

Frank Haider, after assists by Red Grossman and Bud Coleman, scored for the Shamrocks in the first period. Six minutes after the third started the game was held up 20 minutes due to a series of fights during which Goalie-Manager Jock Riddell of the Hornets was given a 10 minute misconduct penalty. Riddell then struck Referee Steve Meuris and was handed a match penalty. With five minutes remaining George Varechok's goal tied the score. Shortly thereafter Scotty Findlay of the Shamrocks gave his team victory.

Diz Cuts Slab of Birthday Cake (Mr. Root's), Sighs, and Signs

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 17.—Dizzy Dean, who forecasts 20 to 25 Cub victories for himself this coming summer, signed his 1940 contract at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon, Pacific standard time. That would be about 7:30 o'clock Chicago time and other parts of the world can figure it out for themselves. Dean did not win any points and signed for $10,000 flat.

Charles Root.

The end came in the hotel apartment of Front Man Clarence Rowland just when it seemed the latest puffs from the latest Dean windstorm were going to blow out all 41 candles on Charley Root's birthday cake.

Enter the Birthday Cake.

Diz earlier in the day had busted out of a ball park conference with Rowland, saying that he was going to go back to his farm, which is seven miles south of Dallas, Tex., leaving Los Angeles at 11:40 o'clock tomorrow morning. It was after this stalking away that Charley Root's birthday cake got into the picture.

Diz, after failing to come to terms with Rowland in the ball park meeting, announced he was going to attend the surprise party Mrs. Root had planned for a group of Charley's baseball friends. Thereby a whirlwind sequence of events was precipitated.

Dean Invites Himself.

Diz, who arrived in town from Dallas at high noon today, hadn't been invited to the Root function, purely because of the uncertainty of his plans and the flexibility of his announcements. Inasmuch as the Roots and Deans have long been good friends, Diz felt no reluctance in deciding he would go to the party. He told his roomie, Augie Galan, of his social plans.

Clarence Rowland.

In the meantime, Rowland, more glamorous than his usual sartorially brilliant self, was all set to be the life of the party at the Root manse.

Clarence was just applying a final film of pomade on his cranium when some one broke into his apartment and told him that Dean was going to be at the Root party. Without finishing the application of pomade, Clarence stomped his foot on a beautiful Chinese rug, possibly woven during the Ming dynasty.

"If he is going to be there, I ain't," Clarence fairly screamed. "I told him this afternoon that he knew the Cubs' offer and that he could take it or leave it. I told him he would have to look me up for the next move and I am not inclined to fraternize with him in the home of friends."

Mr. Drake Enters the Plot.

In the meantime Charley Drake, Cubs' director of public relations, had caught up with the trend of the happenings. Drake had been Mrs. Root's main assistant in arranging the surprise party and was in a terrible dither over the turn of things. He actually was running up and down corridors in his shirt sleeves, trying to keep Diz from going to the party or getting Clarence to go and remain aloof from Diz, or something fairly pleasant.

Well, you can see how serious things were getting. Drake called Augie out into a hall and told him what a pickle-ment things were in. So Augie went back and talked to Dean. Diz said then that maybe he could fix up things. So he called the greatly perturbed Rowland and asked if he might call on him for another little chat before time to leave for the Root dinner.

Dizzy Dean.

Clarence said "Come on over," and resumed his pomading. He knew then he had Diz on the hip.

All's Well That Ends Well.

Well, Clarence and Jerome were together about 10 minutes when out came the joyous news. Diz had signed.

A half hour later Clarence and Dizzy, arm in arm, strode into Root's house to help surprise Root, tho, of course, their act had surprised no one, despite Dean's earlier bluffing.

Dean is expected to accompany the team to Ontario, Cal., tomorrow. He says he is in shape to pitch tomorrow and that he weighs 196 pounds, as contrasted with his 214 at the close of last season.

"I have been doing a lot of throwing recently," Diz said, "but was handicapped by not having a catcher who could hold me. I pitched three days in that school down in Jackson, Miss., and had so much stuff I tore the gloves right off the hands of those poor kids who tried to catch me."

Trinity Beats Elgin Team in Walther League Playoff

Emery Bauer scored six baskets and ten free throws to lead Trinity of Herscher to a 38 to 37 overtime victory over St. John of Elgin in a Walther Basketball league playoff game last night in the Austin High school gymnasium. In other games, Bethlehem of South Chicago defeated St. Peter's of Arlington Heights, 31 to 15; St. Peter's of Arlington Heights triumphed, 28 to 12, over Kankakee in the junior division, and Salem of Blue Island beat Bethel of Westmont, 31 to 21.

ENGEN WINS SKI MEET IN WEST; DEFEATS TOKLE

Seattle, Wash., March 17 (AP).—Alf Engen of Sun Valley, Idaho, made leaps of 200 and 220 feet today to dominate the national four way ski championship meet in the Snoqualmie Ski bowl. Engen's jumps gave him first place in the four way jumping tournament and a point total of 391.48 for the meet, which included slalom—won by Engen—downhill and cross country races earlier in the week. Engen placed third in the downhill and fourth in the cross-country, but his victories in two of the four events put him far ahead of all competitors.

His brother, Sverre Engen, representing the Utah Ski club of Salt Lake, was second with 373.18. Sig Hall, Seattle, was third with 364.75.

In a special jumping event to test out the new A hill at the ski bowl, Engen, national champion, earned another victory over his rival, Torger Tokle, New York, altho Tokle made the longest leap of the day, a 238 foot jump. Engen leaped 224 and 233 feet in this competition and earned 228 points. Tokle, with 238 and 235 foot jumps, was credited with only 224.30 points. Ken Gunnarsen of Revelstroke, B. C., was third, leaping 226 and 218 feet and earning 216.5 points.

SOX GET SCARE IN HOLLYWOOD, BUT WIN IN EIGHTH

Lyons Unsteady in First Start of Season.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 17.—The White Sox, while not as impressive as when they dusted off the Cubs twice in a row, had just enough today to snare their third straight victory, a 6 to 5 decision over movie town's entry in the Coast league. However, the triumph was a bit tainted, the deciding run taking root on some blundering by the Stars and blossoming as the result of a base hit contributed by Frank Metha, one of Manager James Dykes' numerous shock troop infielders.

The exhibition, before about 2,000 guests, marked the spring debut of Ted Lyons, the grandpa of the Sox roster, but he failed to throw much confusion into the enemy. Ted was manhandled so freely in the first inning that his boss made ready to send forth a rescuer. Then Ted looked more like himself in the second, but in the third encountered more difficulties and wasn't at all disappointed when his three inning term had been completed. He yielded four hits, but walked three, and even was guilty of a wild pitch.

Kid Pitchers Do Well.

After Lyons had gone away, Dykes used rookie pitchers, not to mention second stringers in most other positions. The kid pitchers weren't exactly weaklings, considering that they had to work against such ex-big times as Bill Cissell, Babe Herman, and Rupert Thompson. Ed Weiland, one of the Detroit farm hands freed by Commissioner Landis, gave up only one run and two hits, and Orval Grove was equally stingy in his three round stretch, but came close to disaster because of his customary wildness. He walked three in one inning.

The Sox did their real damage in the first three innings when they ripped off nine hits against Wayne Osborne. Among these were two singles by Jack Hayes, a two bagger by

In the WAKE of the NEWS

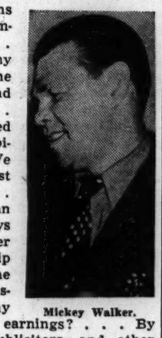
BY ARCH WARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, March 17.—This is the day before the 13th annual intercity Golden Gloves bouts, so it is natural that we should be thinking about amateur boxing and amateur boxers. . . . Both the sport and the participants are close to our heart. . . . As director of Chicago's Golden Gloves tournament, we probably have dealt with more amateur boxers than any other man in the world. . . . Frequently we are asked whether we think amateur boxing is worth while and if we encourage talented performers to follow the professional game as a career. . . . Our answer to question No. 1 is an enthusiastic yes. . . . The answer to No. 2 is an emphatic no. . . . We have a son who is too young for Golden Gloves, but we are frank to admit that it gave his old man a feeling of pride when he came home from a summer camp with a trophy emblematic of the boxing championship. . . . if he wants to compete in an A. A. U. tournament, Golden Gloves, C. Y. O., or any other properly supervised event when he reaches the minimum age limit, he will encounter no parental objection. . . . We imagine any father is happy to know that he has a boy who is willing to give it and take it, according to the rules of the game. . . . Eventually a fellow will learn that he must fight for almost everything he gets in life, and the sooner he realizes it the better. . . . Amateur boxing teaches that lesson in forceful fashion.

Tommy Loughran.

We have nothing against professional boxing. . . . We are among the thousands who enjoy the showmanship and the competition of championship matches. . . . We admit it has carried some to fame and fortune. . . . But for every Joe Louis there are a thousand failures, young men who today might be holding down responsible positions at good salaries if they hadn't dissipated the most important years of their lives chasing rainbows. . . . Yesterday we saw a picture of an old friend, Tommy Loughran, once the light heavyweight champion of the world, who has signed to teach boxing to playground youngsters in Philadelphia at a meager wage. . . . there was a time when Loughran would have laughed at his present yearly income as an offer for an exhibition match against a hand picked opponent. . . . We don't know how much he once was worth, but it must have been a couple of hundred thousand dollars. . . . we used Loughran to illustrate the point of this column because as far as we know he is a man who always has led a decent life. . . . He was generous, but never extravagant. . . . He had the advice and friendship of men regarded as business experts. . . . And still he lost his money. . . . There's something about professional boxing that gets them all. . . . How many can you cite who have been able to live off their earnings? . . . By the time they split with managers, promoters, publicitors, and other impediments, their widely advertised purses have dwindled sharply. . . . Too many have squandered the money that eventually accrued to them in reckless living.



Mickey Walker.

Mickey Walker once was middleweight title holder and universally recognized as one of the greatest fighters of all time. . . . He was a participation in the windup bout at the dedication of Chicago Stadium. . . . The show drew a gate of approximately $200,000. . . . Walker now is tending bar on 8th avenue. . . . Around the corner from his tavern another immortal of the ring, Tony Canzoneri, tried to earn a livelihood by operating a restaurant. . . . It was a flop and Tony lost whatever he had invested in it. . . . Once he was the cleverest boxer in the ring, big or little, and certainly one of the most popular. . . . eventually time caught up with him and he began to slip. . . . Opponents who hardly could have touched him a year previous were tagging him on the chin. . . . The spring was leaving his legs and he couldn't pick off punches the way he once did. . . . He should have retired, but he needed money. . . . He had little or nothing to show for his years of ring warfare. . . . Finally he was taking beatings from fellows he wouldn't have hired as sparring partners in his prime. . . . He tried the restaurant business and failed. . . . He came back for a few more bouts. . . . What else could he do? . . . What else could he know after that long service in the ring?

Tony Canzoneri.

Pitiful? Sure. . . . But isn't it the old, old story of the prize ring? . . . With few exceptions they die broke. . . . We hope the young men who will entertain a capacity crowd in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night keep one thought in mind always. . . . When a fighter finds himself washed up and broke there isn't much he can do. . . . Now is the time to avoid that eventuality. . . . So, fellows, when you are thru with the Golden Gloves, go back to your jobs and your classrooms. . . . Prepare to be useful members of society. . . . Amateur boxing is simply a sport, like basketball, tennis, or baseball. . . . It's the form of athletic activity you enjoy. . . . Don't consider it a career. . . . Ten years from now you will appreciate these suggestions.

Ten Years Ago Today—The Chicago Blackhawks clinched second place in the American division of the National Hockey league when they defeated Toronto, 4 to 1. . . . All seats were sold for the third annual intercity Golden Gloves bouts in the Chicago Stadium. . . . It was rumored that Army and Navy had patched up their quarrel and would resume athletic relations.

FANS WELCOME GRANITE CITY'S CHAMPS HOME

Granite City, Ill., March 17 (AP).—Two bands and 4,000 fans gave a noisy welcome to Granite City's state championship basketball team as it returned from Champaign this afternoon. The crowd waited more than two hours for the players, the team being stopped by celebrations en route. A large crowd turned out in nearby Edwardsville to acclaim the new champions.

After Mayor M. E. Kirkpatrick had welcomed the boys home, a jubilant parade thru the downtown section followed. Nearly 300 automobiles took part.

One group of fans is reported planning to purchase watches for the players who gave this city of 25,000 population its first state championship.

Kansas City, Mo., March 17 (AP).—Taisto Maki and Paavo Nurmi, the two tireless Finns, top the entry list in tomorrow night's Missouri valley A. A. U. track meet. Maki has as his chief rivals Glenn Cunningham and Walter Mehl. They will compete in a special two-mile run.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Ordinarily a landlord commands respect on his own premises, but James Norris, president of the Chicago Stadium, got none last night as his best tenants, the Chicago Blackhawks, gave a St. Patrick's day bronx to his hockey team, the Detroit Red Wings. A gathering of 11,843 saw the Hawks win their final scheduled game of the season by a score of 3 to 1.

The defeat must have been highly irksome to Mr. Norris' boys, for it is seldom in a race as strenuous as the National Hockey league that one team doesn't beat another at least once during eight regular meetings. Yet the Wings came out of their vendetta with the Hawks with nothing more than six lickings and two draws.

Start Cup Play Tomorrow.

If the Hawks' deportment last night is any augury of their fortunes in the Stanley cup playoffs, they are going to be very hard people with whom to deal in the big series. They open their quest for their third grip on the Stanley mug tomorrow night against the Maple Leafs in Toronto. They'll pile into an American Airlines plane at 11:30 this morning, arriving in Toronto at 3 p. m. On Wednesday afternoon they'll fly back here for the second game with the Leafs in the Stadium Thursday night. If a third game is necessary, it will be played Saturday in Toronto.

The game last night was one of the swiftest of the season, the boys not finding time for any such fisticuffing as that of last weekend when 43 penalties were called in two nights against Toronto. Referee King Clancy tagged only four misdemeanors last evening, and the only fighting charge was assessed against Mush March of the Hawks and Jimmy Orlando of the Wings for a brief brush

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 17.—Chicago and New York will meet tomorrow night in the 13th annual intercity Golden Gloves matches before a capacity crowd in Madison Square Garden. Each team will consist of 16 boxers, every one of whom has demonstrated his fighting ability during a long and exacting campaign.

Two months ago Chicago's representatives were just 16 obscure young fellows in a field of approximately 20,000 boxers scattered thru 23 states from Ohio to Texas and from Minnesota to Louisiana. New York's color-bearers were just 16 youngsters struggling for recognition against all the talent that could be mustered along the Atlantic seaboard. The boys of both teams have come a long way in the last two months.

The fights will be broadcast, starting at 10:15 p. m. Chicago time, over W-G-N and the Mutual system.

Chicagoans on Edge.

Chicago's coaches will be watching their boys with particular attention because it will be their last chance to see the boxers perform under fire until they make their selections for the team which will meet the best fighters of Europe's neutral countries in the annual international Golden Gloves matches in Chicago on April 10.

The boxers are keyed up for tomorrow's bouts for a double reason. They realize that upon their performance will depend their chances of making the international squad, but they also want to stand up well under the responsibility of continuing Chicago's victory string. No Chicago team has been beaten in intercity competition since 1934. The 1936 meeting ended in a tie but since then Chicago has scored three consecutive victories. In the course of the entire series, Chicago has won seven and New York three. The other three ended in ties.

It's Always Close.

Most of the engagements have been fairly close, tho in 1931 Chicago scored an overwhelming 13 to 3 victory, after which New York came back to win 12 to 4 in 1932. In the last four meetings, however, the result of one bout could have changed the outcome entirely. In these four years there have been one 8 to 8 tie and three consecutive 9 to 7 scores.

Tomorrow's battling will consist of 16 bouts, two in each weight class, eight of which will bring Golden Glove champions into action. The othe eight will be between alternates. All have an equal bearing on the score.

Chicago's team will go into the struggle in excellent condition. The boys fighting in the championship division, ranging from flyweight to heavyweight, are Harold Dade, Jimmy Joyce, Roy Lewis, Tony Ancona, Savior Canadeo, Joe Maxin, James Richie, and Cornelius Young. The alternates are Walter Cavalieri, Ray Brown, Leon Haire, Ed O'Connell, Anthony Jones, Otto Stowe, Sheldon Bell, and Bill Peterson.

Call Meeting on Rules.

Representatives of Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and the New York Daily News, which have coöperated in the sponsorship of the event, will meet at noon tomorrow in the Park Central hotel with judges, referees, timers, A. A. U. officials, and the coaches of the two teams, Johnny Behr of Chicago and Spike Webb of New York.

BOXERS DON'T MINCE PUNCHES—

So we'll not mince words. When the finest team recruited from Europe's neutral nations starts punching against the Chicagoland Golden Gloves champions the night of April 10 in the Stadium, you'll want to be there. So beat the other fans to the punch and order your tickets early. Mail orders are now being accepted. Send check or money order payable to The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., to the Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago. The prices:

CHICAGO BOXERS FIGHT TONIGHT TO REACH 2 GOALS

International Berths Also at Stake in New York.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 17.—Chicago's Golden Glovers, who meet New York's best tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden, have more at stake than victory in the 13th intercity contests. Father Knickerbocker's lads, as you may recite with civic pride, haven't whipped Chicago since 1934. But the invasion of Chicago on April 10 by the European team is another matter.

Chicago was beaten last year 5 bouts to 3 by the strongest team Europe ever sent to Chicago. That was the first international defeat a Chicago Golden Gloves team had suffered. The only close call was in 1932 when the German Olympic boxing squad tied the Chicago team in Soldiers' field, 4 to 4.

Fight for Two Purposes.

So tomorrow evening Chicago's Golden Glovers not only will be fighting to defeat New York, but they also will be fighting for places on the international squad which will begin training March 29 in the Illinois Athletic club.

This is not intended to detract from the importance of the intercity battles. Nor is it assumed that Chicago will whip New York. The New Yorkers are considerably irritated by Chicago's continued supremacy and are out to win. However, the intercity bouts are the first major test for the Chicagoans.

As Coaches John Behr and Paddy Kane pointed out this noon before the boxers went to the gymnasium, only eight will fight against Europe. Sixteen fight tomorrow night.

It is natural comparisons will be made. Intercity success or failure may be the factor in determining the No. 1 candidate for an international berth.

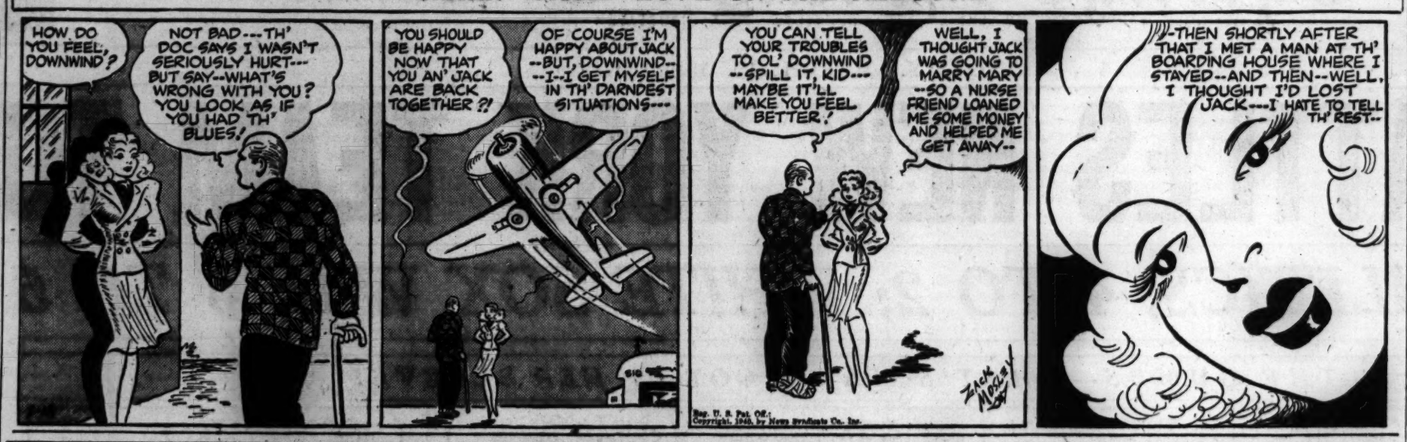
Any May Meet European Champion.

Under the rules of competition Chicago's champions are paired with New York's champions. Against Europe, any competitors in the Chicago tournament may fight against the European champion. And with the excellent possibility that Ulderigo Sergo of Italy will be Europe's featherweight, the intercity fights in which Roy Lewis, 1940 Golden Gloves featherweight champion, and Leon Haire, alternate, take part assume increased importance.

Tony Ancona of Detroit, and Eddie O'Connell of Chicago, who fight against New York, also are well matched.

This grouping might be continued thru all weights with the exception of the heavyweight class where at this time Cornelius Young rules supreme. When the Chicagoans return next Friday morning after two days of sightseeing in Washington, D. C., they will have one week's vacation. They then start a 12 day training period in the Illinois Athletic club to meet the European squad that will be chosen in Rome Wednesday.

SMILIN' JACK—LOVE ON THE REBOUND



Italy's Boxers Battle On for Trip to Chicago

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NOVARA, Italy, March 17.—Four of the six Italian fighters conceded a good chance to qualify for the European team which will take part in the International Golden Gloves matches in Chicago on April 10 advanced to the finals of the Italian national boxing tournament tonight.

Egisto Peire, defending lightweight champion, moved into the finals by stopping Guido Beserari of Algiers in the first round. Beserari decided almost as quickly as the capacity crowd did that it would be useless to continue against Peire's terrific punching and walked to his corner in the middle of the round.

Zucca Wins in Upset.

Ettore Zucca, a strong youngster, was the winner in an upset in the bantamweight semifinals when he stopped Arturio Paoletti in the third round. Guido Nardecchia, flyweight contender was forced to withdraw from the tournament today. However Italy has another great flyweight in Constanti Paesani. More rugged than the veteran Nardecchia, Paesani is the more dangerous puncher.

There are several other strong contenders in the finals. Among them are Ulderigo Sergo, bantamweight who, it is claimed in Italy, is the world's outstanding amateur fighter, and Enrico Cortonesi, another good boxer.

Frigyes Given Chance.

It is believed that only Deszo Frigyes, the Hungarian, has a chance to break the Italian supremacy in the first four weights, but he will have to defeat Cortonesi in an elimination bout in Rome Wednesday to gain his place on the European team, which will sail for the United States from Naples on Thursday.

In the four heavier weights the Italians are a year or two away from the peak reached, in particular, by the Scandinavian entries. It is conceded that Norway and Sweden will supply the welterweight, middleweight, light heavyweight and heavyweight contenders on the European team. Ole Tanberg, for three years European heavyweight champion, is the outstanding Scandinavian entry. A terrific puncher and an excellent boxer, he has no opposition in Italy, but will box one or two exhibition bouts in Rome Wednesday night before leaving for Naples with the rest of the team.

The Rens eliminated the Canton Bulldogs, 40 to 15, in the first of the evening contests.

The Bruins opened the afternoon play with a 45 to 27 victory over the Fort Wayne Harvesters.

The Harvesters, with Dave Herbst and Bob Irons hitting long shots, held a 22 to 17 advantage at the half. Fort Wayne hit for a field goal as the second half opened to run the count to 24 to 17. Novak and Kautz then went to work and the Bruins tallied 18 points before the Hoosiers could score again.

The Harlem Globe Trotters, who finished third last year, toyed with Kenosha. The score at half time was a respectable 33 to 20 in favor of the winners. They then turned on the heat to wind up with an easy 50 to 26 verdict.

TRAYNHAM AND STRAUSS WIN IN FENCING MEET

Herbert Strauss Jr. won the saber championship and Floyd Traynham Jr. the epee title in the state division junior tournament of the American Fencers League of America in Bartlett gymnasium yesterday. Both represented the Albar Hermanson Fencing school.

Henry Hauser of the Edgewater Fencers club was second and William Hoffman of Northwestern university third in a field of 18 entrants in the saber event. Walter Eisen of the Hermanson school placed second in the epee event. Warren Huguelet of the Lake Shore Athletic club was third among the 16 contestants.

Senior foil preliminaries for men and women will be conducted next Sunday in the Lake Shore club.

Muldune Will Battle Wacker in Eight Rounds

Willie Muldune, 1938 intercity Golden Gloves light heavyweight winner, will make his Chicago debut as a professional in an eight round bout against Henry Wacker, local heavyweight, in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight. One of Muldune's achievements is a one round knockout he scored over Lee Oma of Detroit in Cleveland last Jan. 15. In his last appearance Wacker lost a decision in eight rounds to Buddy Knox in the Stadium Jan. 29, but prior to this setback he defeated Ed [Tipperary] Murray, and knocked out Harry Sutton and Leo [Red] Bruce.

Joe Sutka, Wyandotte, Mich., middleweight, will be after revenge in a return contest of eight rounds against Jimmy Bivins of Cleveland.

In an additional match of eight rounds George Nyberg, Port Arthur, Ont., welterweight, will meet Tony Yates of Minneapolis. Nyberg will be making his first appearance in this city since Sept. 18 when he won a split decision in eight rounds over Tony Sopko.

Ralph Guajardo, who beat Bobby Ryan in the Coliseum last Thursday, will oppose Eu Eullen in a four round opener at 145 pounds.

Hans Schnabel and Charley [Gorilla] Grubmyer will be opponents in a one hour encounter heading the wrestling show in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, tonight.

3 QUINTETS WIN SECTION HONORS IN B. B. Y. O. MEET

Three sectional champions were decided in the heavyweight division of the B'nai B'rith Youth organization basketball tournament yesterday.

On the north side the Spilkets defeated Coteries, 36 to 25; out west the Herzl A. B. C. won from the Reizners, 39 to 32, and in the north zone the Bronze Memorial club beat KaDoDees, 44 to 35.

In other heavyweight games the Kel-Tul-Roos won from All Stars, 35 to 34, and Berkeley Tailors defeated the Orioles, 44 to 27. Three games were played in the 145 pound class, with Albany Park Boys' club beating Condors, 38 to 35; B. B. R. defeating Capitol Electric, 37 to 20, and Dave Eichners winning from Maccabi, 31 to 25. Garfield Park won, 37 to 35, over Salomon in a lodge division game to decide third and fourth place playoff berths.

Sparta Beats Detroit; Gains Western Final

The Sparta Falstaffs of Chicago reached the western division finals in the national soccer cup competition by defeating the Detroit Chryslers in ideal weather yesterday, 1 to 0, before a crowd of 3,000 in Sparta stadium. The Spartas will oppose either the Morgans or Heidelbergs, both of Pittsburgh, in the western title playoff.

George Peterson of Moline, Ill., inside left acquired by the Sparta club three weeks ago, scored the only goal after 35 minutes of play on an eight yard shot following assists by Jimmy MacDermott and Billy Fraser. Fraser started the play by cutting down the right and passing to MacDermott, who fed Peterson. Brilliant saving by Joe Silovsky, Sparta goalie, thwarted Detroit's scoring opportunities with the wind at the Chrysler's backs.

Johnny Goodfellow, Detroit center, furnished a thrill in the first five minutes with a shot from 20 yards, but the ball went over the bar. Late in the first half, which was marred by penalties, Johnny Neilson of Detroit also sent a hard drive over the bar.

D. Neilson, Detroit goalie, saved on shots by Fraser and MacDermott in the second half when the wind aided the Spartans. Neil Campbell of Detroit missed the best chance to tie the score when his shot, after 20 minutes of play, went over the bar altho he had no one to beat. Neilson was injured with 15 minutes left, but resumed play. With five minutes left George Hay of the Chryslers was banished for using abusive language, and Detroit played one man short. Lineups:

HOPPE TAKES CUE LEAD; CHAMACO UPSET BY DENTON

Willie Hoppe, the graying professor of billiards, stands alone after the finish of a week's play in the world's three cushion tournament. Last night he won his fifth straight match at Bensinger's South Wabash recreation arena and lingered around long enough to watch Joe Chamaco of Mexico City, the national champion, suffer his first defeat. These two circumstances placed the New Yorker at the top of the 11 man field.

Hoppe, playing in his best form of the tournament, beat Otto Reiselt to a frazzle in 33 innings, 50 to 25. Chamaco finally met his master in 58 year old Tiff Denton of Kansas City in a battle that went 53 innings and ended, 50 to 36. The Missourian scored eight in the 49th frame and had two runs of six. The Mexican had won three straight contests.

Who Will Stop Hoppe?

WEBSTER HAS NO WORDS TO DEFINE THE 1940 ANGEL

This Fellow Makes Boris Karloff a Gable.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Boris Karloff, one of the more grotesque bogey men of the cinema, is beautiful.

The Angel as He Sees Himself.

This statement is made without qualification after one startled glance at The Angel. If a dozen of Hollywood's most horror minded makeup artists worked double shifts on the Karloff kisser and sent him out to meet The Angel at State and Madison in broad daylight, Boris would cut across lots to Oak Park in nothing flat after one look at The Angel's features.

Mr. Webster of the dictionary Websters is caught off first when you consult him on the definition of the word "angel." He makes out that an angel is "a spiritual, celestial being, superior to man in power and intelligence." That is what Mr. Webster thought. He never saw Maurice Tillet, the 36 year old Frenchman who will wrestle Rudy Dusek Wednesday evening in the Coliseum. A dozen Chicago reporters and photographers viewed Maurice yesterday and left with the feeling that he will ha'nt them thru a week of nightmares.

A Patient for the Clinics.

Not since Primo Carnera's feet were described in these columns as a pair of fiddle cases has a sports character attracted as much attention as this fellow who was given the name of The Angel. James Londos, the most magnificent showman of them all in wrestling, has never been the subject of a special clinic by Harvard anthropologists. Bronko Nagurski has never held a telephonic conversation in French with Henry Field, the director of the Field museum, arranging a date for an examination of his head [outside measurements], such as Maurice will submit to Wednesday morning.

Jim and Bronk, of course, are the sort of fellows you would not mind meeting, even in a dark alley. Not so The Angel. The man has been the subject of expert probing since his arrival in the United States on Jan. 16. The Harvard lads gave him the works with calipers, particularly around the skull, and were right glad that Maurice didn't give them the works with his caliper hold around the middle.

No Business for Hatters.

The son of a mining engineer and a school teacher, Maurice is a victim of a glandular maladjustment known as acromegaly. He was born in the Russian Ural mountains, where his father was employed. Both parents were normal. So, also, is Maurice, according to the wise men who have examined him and found not a weak spot in his body, barring the unusual size of his cranium. His face is 7.16 inches wide, and measures 7.05 inches from the point of his jaw to the bridge of his nose. He doesn't wear a regular hat, sporting a beret instead, but an average size 7 skimmer sets on his head like a Pinnochio cap. He is 5 feet 8¾ inches tall and weighs 276 pounds. His shoes will match those of an average 10½ size wearer, but are twice as broad.

It is a pity that Maurice doesn't speak more English than he does, altho he can get by in five languages. He is really a charming person, and judging from the manner in which he follows conversations in other tongues, a very intelligent one. His interpreter on the current tour is Karl Pojello, the veteran Lithuanian rassler who discovered him in a Singapore bar. Karl thought it was strange that Maurice was engaged in tiger hunting at the time, but discovered later that he served six years in the French navy as a submarine petty officer and played for France in rugby. He was a forward and was congratulated by the late George V. after scoring two goals in a 3 to 2 victory over England at Twickenham.

Pojello refuses to regard The Angel as a mere monstrosity. He has toured with Maurice the world over, teaching him American catch-as-catch-can holds before bringing him to Paul Boesser, Boston wrestling entrepreneur. Karl insists that Maurice is technically apt in the mat trade, and defies anybody, including Dusek, to match his caliper hold.

BOSTON, 7; MONTREAL, 2

Boston, Mass., March 17 (AP).—The Boston Bruins ended their season as National Hockey league champions by overwhelming the Montreal Canadiens, 7 to 2, before 8,000 tonight.

The Bruins had been ordered to abandon body checking to keep the squad at full strength for the Stanley cup playoffs against the New York Rangers, starting Tuesday. As a result the Canadiens, who dressed only 10 men, held them even at 2-all for two periods. The Canadiens were so weary in the third period, however, that Boston drove five shots thru Goalie Claude Bourque.

Before the game, Frank Calder, league president, presented the Prince of Wales cup to the Bruins and the Elizabeth C. Dufresne trophy, awarded annually to the team's outstanding player, to Capt. Dit Clapper. Lineups:

3 CHAMPIONS ARE CROWNED IN C. Y. O. TOURNEY

Three champions of the Catholic Youth Organization basketball league yesterday were crowned in the Coliseum.

St. Columbanus became champion of the heavyweight class by defeating St. Mel, 45 to 39. Robert Hart, Walter Boyle, and James Turney were the high scorers for the victors. Last Sunday St. Mel defeated Immaculate Conception, last season's heavyweight champion, and yesterday's defeat was the first one the west side squad received.

St. Sylvester, last season's lightweight champion, was upset by St. Anselm's, 31 to 24. This was St. Sylvester's first defeat in 31 games.

Immaculate Conception [North Park], defending girls' champion, retained its title by winning over St. Columbanus, 24 to 9. The Immaculate Conception team has not lost a contest in C. Y. O. competition for two years. The Catholic grammar school championship was won by St. Stanislaus Kostka, which defeated St. Sabina, 31 to 22.

in the eighth minute of the final period.

Let Wings Score First.

The Hawks rubbed it in by allowing the Wings to score the first goal of the game and then tying the score with one of their own men in the penalty box.

Mud Bruneteau, collaborating with Alex Motter and Syd Howe, scored the Wing goal at 14:22 of the opening session. In the second period, after March was deported for hooking Abel, Bill Thoms took the puck from George Allen, and fired a 25 foot shot that beat Tiny Thompson, the Wing goalie, and brother of Paul, the Hawk manager. The goal was made at 6:01.

Before the period was over Bill Carse nudged home the goal sufficient to win, on assists from Allen and March, and in the 11th minute of the third period Phil Hergesheimer batted home a pass from big Jack Portland.

NATIONAL STARS BEAT AMERICAN IN NINTH, 2 TO 1

Tampa, Fla., March 17 (AP).—The National league finally bristled up and licked the American league, 2 to 1, in an All-Star game on Plant field today before a crowd of more than 13,000. The contest realized more than $20,000 for the Finnish relief fund.

Deadlocked 1 to 1 going into the last of the ninth inning after a sparkling and sustained exhibition of pitching, the National leaguers shoved across the deciding run before a man was retired on two sharp singles and an error by Hal Trosky, Cleveland Indians' first baseman.

Sox Win from Hollywood in Opener, 6 to 5

Taft Wright, and another two bagger by Larry Rosenthal, who had to take over the center fielding in the second when Mike Kreevich developed a kink in his right shoulder.

Sox Gamble Loses.

The Sox touched off three hits under Osborne in the first inning, but due to gambling a bit on the bases, they netted only one run. Hayes opened with a single to center and was forced by Kuhel, who took third on Kreevich's single. Kreevich took second on the throw in. Solters beat out a slow dribbler along the third base line, Kuhel scoring, but when Kreevich attempted to do the same, he was nailed at the plate, Kahle to Sweeney to Brenzel.

The Stars roughed up Lyons to the extent of three hits in their opening half, scoring two runs for a momentary lead. It all happened after Lyons had dispatched the first two batters. Sweeny then singled off Kennedy's shin. Thompson walked and Babe Herman singled to score Sweeney. Brenzel also singled, Thompson moving across the plate. Kennedy tossed out Skelley.

The Sox didn't fool around in the second. They turned a series of Osborne's pitches into clothesline drives good for three runs. Wright set things in motion with a two bagger to right and was driven home immediately on Kennedy's single to the same spot. Tresh singled to center, sending Kennedy to third. Kennedy scored while Lyons was being thrown out by Cissell, and Tresh came in on Hayes' single to right.

Appling Bats in Run.

The Sox padded their lead with another run in the third, the makings of this being a double by Rosenthal, who supplanted Kreevich when the latter complained of a sore arm, and a single by Appling.

The Stars' half of the inning was equally strenuous for Lyons. Cissell walloped his former mate for a two bagger to left, went to third on a wild pitch, and scored on an out. The Stars also scored off Welland in the fourth, leaving the Sox in front, 5 to 4.

Grove had a terrible time in his first inning, the seventh, but escaped with the punishment limited to the tying run. Cissell opened with a two bagger into right and a pass to Sweeney came next. The runners moved up on Thompson's roller to Leiter, and an intentional pass to Herman loaded the bases. Grove fanned House, but forced a run across by passing Skelley. A fellow named Gay tried to pinch hit, but was a failure.

Wild Tosses Aid Sox.

The Sox enjoyed a little outside help while getting back into the lead in the eighth. Solters led off with a grounder to third and Johnson pegged wild. Another contribution, this one a wild pitch by Ardizoia, moved Solters to second. Both Webb and Wright popped to Cissell, but Metha pasted a single into center, Solters scoring.

Tomorrow's bus ride for the Sox involves a jaunt to Anaheim and a combat with Connie Mack's Athletics. The pitching for the day will be in charge of Jess Dobernic, Vallie Eaves, and Clirt Brown, the latter making his first appearance of the season. Potter, Poindexter, and Beckman will operate on the mound for the Macks.

PULLMAN FARE CUT SOUGHT TO AID BUSINESS

Reported Important to Future Profit.

Lower fares to enable it to compete on a more favorable basis with other services would help Pullman travel, David A. Crawford, president of Pullman, Inc., indicated yesterday in his annual report to stockholders. Crawford mentioned the forms of competition which have arisen in the last few years to curtail Pullman travel.

Among these he listed transportation of passengers by highway and air—"with the aid of tax supported operating facilities and subsidies"—and the expanding installation of "fast, long distance coach trains offering at much lower rail fares certain features of travel comfort and convenience heretofore available only to Pullman passengers."

Operating Costs Higher.

Crawford said that altho the revenue from its cars remains at a level of about 68 per cent of the pre-depression average, the car-unit operating costs are frozen at a level about 26 per cent higher than the average of such costs in that period, due principally to higher wages and taxes.

"Worthwhile earnings improvement depends primarily upon a substantial increase in traffic volume, which is dependent in turn upon sustained recovery of public purchasing power and upon adoption of concerted and effective rate and other promotional measures by all parties concerned with the operation and financial results of the first class rail-Pullman service," he said.

The graph shows the shifts in Pullman revenue in comparison with Barron's index of production and trade. The Pullman index is based on 1923-'25 as 100 and is adjusted for season.

"In the last analysis, however, the 'price tag' is the most important single factor, and placement of first class fares on a more favorable basis with relation to competitive services would provide effective stimulus for an advance in Pullman travel volume."

Net Income Is Larger.

Crawford said that the consolidated net income for 1939 was $4,009,475, equal to $1.03 a share, compared with $2,295,829, or 59 cents a share, in 1938. Earnings of $2,630,298 were derived from the sleeping car business, compared with $2,504,266 in 1938. The manufacturing subsidiary, Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company, produced a profit of $418,348 on sales totaling $29,692,655, compared with a 1938 profit of $239,933 on $33,102,137 sales. Security investments produced a $1,684,098 profit, including a nonrecurring profit of $971,310 on the sale of United States government securities.

Crawford said that more than 400 light weight sleeping cars are now in service or on order. Commenting on the improved rail service, he said that in 1928 there was no mile a minute service in the country except for one or two short runs in the east, but today there are approximately 1,000 passenger runs involving some 55,000 miles of daily operation at an average speed of 60 miles an hour or faster.

China Getting Good Roads by American Aid

The Chinese government is well on the way toward good highway transportation as the result of American engineering aid. This belief was expressed last night by Maurice E. Sheahan, vice president of the Keeshin Transcontinental Freight Lines, Inc., who has just returned from the orient after an absence of slightly more than six months.

Sheahan was chairman of a committee of Chicagoans connected with the Keeshin lines who went to China to help China develop a highway system to carry supplies in her war with Japan. His two committee associates, A. B. Bassi and C. W. Van Patter, are still in China.

"A new transportation system is emerging in China," said Sheahan. "Today China has more good roads, more and better trucks, and more and better transportation than it has ever had."

American Credits Granted.

Sheahan, Bassi, and Van Patter went to China last August at the request of the Chinese government. The mission, supplementing the aid given China in its war with Japan by the American government, was and is being financed out of credits granted to China by the Export-Import bank of the United States. A credit of $25,000,000 was granted in December, 1938, and an additional $20,000,000 credit was granted March 7 of this year.

According to Sheahan the coöperation of Chinese governmental officials and the people themselves "was marvelous." They were not only eager to learn, but eager to help. One of the important steps in the Chicago group's work was the creation of the China Transport corporation by the Chinese government.

This corporation, he said, had an original capital of 50 million dollars. It assumed official charge of the operation of more than 4,000 trucks and 500 buses in southwest China. It now is planning to operate some 2,300 more trucks and buses in northwest China.

Roads Not as Poor as Expected.

The Chicagoans found inadequate roads in China, but not as poor as they had expected, according to Sheahan. However, despite improvements, they can support trucks only up to a maximum of three tons. [Illinois roads support trucks up to 10 tons.]

In their work of unifying China's transport facilities, Sheahan and his associates recommended and brought about the coöperative use of camels, donkeys, horses, hand carts, river junks, human runners, and airplanes. All are now working together over large areas, and in the speediest time possible, he said.

Repair shops, garages, and servicing stations have been established over vast regions, Sheahan said. Gasoline supply stations have also been increased. Old roads are being reconstructed, and new ones are being built.

A national highway police organization has been organized to make highways safer and a uniform licensing system for drivers also has been established. Training schools for chauffeurs likewise have been created.

Probably one of the chief improvements developed, Sheahan said, was the introduction of the drivers' relay system whereby one chauffeur relieves another. Previously one driver stayed with his truck to the end of his journey at a cost of valuable time.

CHARGE FEDERAL DEBT RUNS ABOVE ITS LEGAL LIMIT

Washington, D. C., March 17 (AP).—The National Economy league contended today that "outside the budget" transactions of lending agencies had pushed the federal debt to more than $48,000,000,000, well beyond the legal debt limit of $45,000,000,000.

On Feb. 26 a league statement said the "direct" debt stood at $42,350,000,000. On top of this, it asserted, government corporations had issued $5,700,000,000 of their own securities, guaranteed by the government. This, the statement added, "is merely a device for continuing a vast spending-lending policy."

Closeups of Self-Plowing Devices

Farmer Frank W. Andrew is shown above in a closeup view of fixed wheel around which tractor cable winds, thus pulling driverless machine toward it each time and doing away with the manual labor of plowing.

DAY by DAY on the FARM.

He decided to do something about it before time to sow wheat that fall.

The result was a scheme for the automatic operation of his tractor in circles, or, more exactly, in spirals.

Andrew set an old barrel in the center of the field to be sown in wheat and ran a piano wire from it to the tractor at the edge of the field. By attaching the wire to an automatic steering device on the front of the tractor it was a simple matter, he says, to start the tractor and let it spiral around the field, winding the wire around the barrel as it went, the spiral growing smaller with each turn of the wire around the barrel until the tractor finally wound up at the barrel in the middle of the field.

He hitched a disk, drag, roller, harrow, and grain drill to the tractor, started the machinery around the field, and went away and left it. All five of the implements were light, since they originally were pulled by horses.

All Done in One Operation.

The machinery prepared the seed bed and drilled the wheat in one operation, stopping automatically when it had wound itself into the barrel.

Encouraged by the success of his automatic wheat sowing, Andrew applied for a patent on his invention and planned more circular fields for the next year's crop. He has been farming in circles ever since and expects to keep on. Last year he planted three circular fields in oats and eight in corn.

Andrew put much thought and careful figuring, but little money, into his automatic tractor control device. The whole thing cost him less than $10.

The device is simple. Andrew found that other inventors had patented similar contraptions years ago. Theirs did not work. His, only slightly different, does, he insists.

Jumps Off and Lets It Go.

All Andrew does is connect the wire from a drum or wheel in the center of the field to the control on the tractor, start the tractor, and then jump off and let it go.

It ran for hours at a time last summer, both day and night, with no one around. Andrew thinks nothing of going to town or about his other work on the farm and leaving the tractor in the field plowing, disking, or cultivating. He has never harvested with the automatic equipment, but he feels certain he can do it.

In a demonstration last week the tractor pulled a drag and roller in spirals, over bumpy, frozen ground while Andrew and this reporter and a photographer sat on a fence and watched.

The tractor works either from the outside of the circle to the center or from the center outward. When working in it winds the wire around the drum; working outward, it unwinds it. The width of the implement the tractor is pulling determines the size of drum to use to keep the rows even.

Finds Some Trouble.

The device is not quite foolproof. Andrew says it is a bit helpless when a plow gets clogged with stalks or weeds. He doubts if it would work well in rolling fields. It cannot be used on all types of tractors. Then, too, there are the odd shaped strips of land between the circles to deal with. Last year he planted these in soy beans. When he gets his rectangular field of 88 acres into the smallest possible number of circles he can work these into a permanent crop rotation and put the spaces between them in hay.

"The most obvious advantage of automatic farming is the saving of labor, but the work is more exact and efficient than can be done in the conventional manner," Andrew said.

Homesteaded by Grandfather.

The Andrew farm, homesteaded before the civil war by Frank's grandfather, has 330 acres, but most of it is in timber pasture. The oblong field of the Andrew farm is not so well suited to circle farming as square fields would be. About 78 per cent of a square field can be farmed in one circle.

Andrew has no fancy equipment to work with. He takes old implements, bought years ago by his father and grandfather for use with horses, and adapts them to his new system of farming. "The tractor and disk are the only machines I have that are not older than I am and they were bought about 10 years ago," he said.

Makes Own Equipment.

Combining his bent for tinkering with machinery and his training in agricultural engineering, it is easy for this enterprising young man to make much of his own equipment from old machines and pieces of scrap iron. He put two old single bottom plows together at a cost of 26 cents for two clamps and made a two bottom plow that follows the tractor faithfully as it spirals around the field. When it was time to cultivate the long, spiraled rows of corn last summer he fastened together two single row cultivators—one 35 years old, the other more than 50—and cultivated two rows at a time.

Andrew fixed up a landing field on the farm last summer so his brother, an army aviator, might easily stop for a visit when passing. He plowed up part of it last fall in rearranging his circular fields. He is an amateur pilot—and a musician.

GEN. MOTORS' OFFICIALS OWN MUCH OF STOCK

Holdings Are Placed at 218 Millions.

New York, March 17 (AP).—The General Motors corporation published figures today to show a substantial part of the ownership in the 2 billion dollar enterprise lies within the corporation family. Directly involved in the ownership, the company said in its annual report, are 4,009,000 shares representing an investment of $218,491,000, figured on the 1939 year-end market price of $54.50 a share for the common stock.

The industrial mammoth, owned by 386,000 stockholders and the employer of 220,000 in 1939, has nearly 43,000,000 common shares outstanding. Excluded from the management's holdings were 10,000,000 common shares owned by E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., the dominant concentrated interest.

Holdings of Directors.

Fifteen of the 29 directors who devote all their time to the corporation's affairs own and control 1,912,500 shares, representing an investment of $104,231,000, the report said. Approximately 3,300 individuals in the supervising group within the operating organization, the report said, own 963,700 shares, with an investment of $52,522,000.

The company said "managerial ownership is being constantly expanded" under the bonus plan for distributing shares as reward and incentive to managerial ability. The corporation called attention to the managerial stake in face of the modern trend toward large scale collective corporate enterprise in raising capital.

1939 One of Best Years.

Recovery in business in 1939 gave General Motors one of its best years, with net sales expanding to $1,376,828,337 from $1,066,973,000 in 1938. As previously announced, profit from the sales was equivalent to $4.04 on the common stock against $2.17 in 1938.

Pay rolls increased to $386,292,203 from $300,825,930 in 1938. At the close of 1939 the corporation had $434,172,831 working capital.

The corporation disclosed that since the start of the war American personnel formerly in executive charge of General Motors' German unit, Adam Opel A. G., had turned over the administration to German nationals in accordance with established policy.

SEC IS SEEKING SOLUTION FOR PRICE PROBLEM

Washington, D. C., March 17 (AP).—Discussing its recent rule covering operations to "stabilize" prices of particular securities, the securities commission declared today that it would "attack the problem piecemeal, step by step," while building "an approach to its ultimate solution."

Stabilizing refers to purchases made by a group to hold a security at or near a prevailing price by creating an artificial market for the issue.

The commission's statement, discussed a rule made effective on Feb. 15. This calls for notice of intention to stabilize a security, for reports to the SEC on day to day stabilizing activities, and forbids raising the market price during these operations.

The commission said it was faced with three alternatives: continued nonregulation of stabilizing, some form of regulations, or prohibiting it altogether. The commission described stabilizing as a form of manipulation, but explained that congress had called for regulation, rather than prohibition, of the practice.

CORN STARCH AND SIRUPS.

In a recent story about the corn starch industry, I saw mentioned Penick & Ford. is this company an important unit in the industry? Does it have any stock outstanding that is traded on a leading exchange?—H. S.

Answer: Penick & Ford, Ltd., Inc., is one of the largest producers of corn derivatives in the country. About two-thirds of its output of corn starches, sirups, sugars, and oils are sold in bulk to the food, textile, paper, and brewing industries. The company also makes cattle feed from the by-product of corn refining, and molasses, cane sirup, maple sirup, and dessert powders.

A 19 acre refining plant at Cedar Rapids, Ia., cane sirup and molasses plants at Harvey, La., and Columbus, Ga., and a maple and blended sirup plant at Burlington, Vt., are operated by the company.

Because corn is the basic raw material of its manufacturing process, the price ot corn is an important factor in determining the firm's earnings. Competition from duty-free imports of tapioca and sago starches is an adverse influence upon profits.

Despite higher corn prices, Penick & Ford was able to report an increase of approximately 28 per cent in net income during 1939 compared with that of 1938. Earnings last year were the largest since 1930.

The following table compares net income, earnings per common share, and dividends paid per common share in recent years:

	Net income.	Earned per share.	Dividends per sh.
1935	$1,053,000	$2.85	$3.00
1936	1,302,000	3.52	3.75
1937	272,000	.74	1.50
1938	1,140,000	3.09	3.00
1939	1,456,000	3.95	4.00

A dividend of 75 cents a share was paid March 15 on common stock of record March 4. Payments on the common stock have been made each year since 1928. The company has outstanding 369,000 shares of no par common stock, which alone comprises the capitalization. The shares are listed on the New York Stock exchange.

Total assets of the company at the end of 1939 amounted to $11,812,140 and consisted mostly of land, factories, and inventories of corn. Current assets of $6,342,688 compared with current liabilities of $871,767.

AIRCRAFT SALES.

Do you have any information on sales of aircraft in the United States last year?—W.T.

Answer: The Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America has estimated that sales of aircraft products in 1939 amounted to $225,000,000 compared with $130,000,000 in 1938.

REPORT STEEL BUYING SHOWS LITTLE CHANGE

Despite scattered gains in domestic markets and continued activity in export trade the general steel demand is little changed, the magazine Steel said yesterday in its weekly review of the industry.

The absence of spring building orders which were expected to develop in recent weeks forced production down again last week, the publication said, leaving it one point lower at 62.5 per cent of theoretical ingot capacity.

Chicago's production rate eased half a point at 59.5 per cent.

AIR LINE'S 1939 NET EARNINGS TOTAL $322,121

United Turns 1938 Loss Into Profit.

United Air Lines Transport corporation operated at a profit of $322,121 last year, sharing in the benefits which the air transportation industry as a whole reaped from improved business conditions, W. A. Patterson, president of the company, said yesterday in his annual report.

W. A. Patterson.

The company's earnings were equal, after all charges, to 21.5 cents a share on the outstanding stock. In 1938 United Air Lines had a loss of $997,221.

Describing 1939 as the industry's best year, Patterson said several factors contributed to the increases shown in miles flown and the volume of passengers, express and mail carried. Business improvement stimulated travel, he said, and many visitors to the New York City and San Francisco world fairs rode the air lines.

Advertising Gives Aid.

Other factors, Patterson said, were increased advertising by individual companies and by the industry for all air lines, and a higher standard of service.

The company's 1939 gross revenues were $12,287,374, an increase of 23.8 per cent over 1938. Passenger revenue gained 36.8 per cent, and express revenue increased 18.7 per cent. Mail revenue gained 5.6 per cent. Passenger revenue, totaling $7,621,800, accounted for 62 per cent of all of the 1939 revenue. Mail revenue, $3,702,071, produced 30.1 per cent of the total revenue, and express revenue of $497,866 yielded 4.1 per cent of total receipts. Miscellaneous sources contributed the rest.

United Air Lines planes flew a total of 148,954,288 revenue passenger miles last year, against 108,873,302 in 1938, and 17,637,068 revenue plane miles, against 15,508,952.

Union Carbide Gains.

Union Carbide and Carbon corporation reported net income for 1939 was $35,847,400, equal to $3.86 a share. In 1938 the company earned $25,173,412, or $2.77 a share.

In his annual report to stockholders Jesse J. Ricks, president of Union Carbide, said the company spent $8,500,000 last year for construction and other capital purposes, not including acquisition of Bakelite corporation. He said such expenditures this year probably will be larger.

Expanding use of stainless steel and other alloy steels caused a record consumption of ferro-alloys by the steel industry last year, Ricks said.

"Important processing improvements have been developed by the corporation's engineers which make it possible to use tungsten ore, which is available in this country," he said. "This tends to decrease the dependence on supplies from abroad."

Smelter Earns More.

American Smelting and Refining company announced its consolidated profit in 1939 was $13,057,145, equal to $4.36 a common share, against $10,611,809, or $3.24 a share, in 1938. Simon Guggenheim, president, said the company's excess metal stocks had been practically eliminated at the end of last year.

Copperweld Steel company reported net income of $934,348 for 1939. In 1938 profit was $619,853. S. E. Bramer, president, said the company's sales last year established a record, climbing 43 per cent over the 1938 volume.

How Farmer Frank W. Andrew of Palmyra makes driverless tractor do his plowing. He attaches it by cable to wheeled stake (center). Cable winds around wheel as tractor moves, pulling it inward gradually. Result: Phonograph groove furrows.
